Welcome to The Old Globe

Dear Theatregoers... After the smashing success of this summer’s remarkable Shakespeare Festival, plus Moonlight and Magnolias and The Lady with All the Answers, we might well be inclined to give a huge sigh of relief and accomplishment and relax. But that’s hardly going to be possible, given the double-bill we offer at the moment.

To welcome my beloved colleagues Terrence McNally and Graciela Daniele back to this theatre is a consummation devoutly to be wished, since he last graced our halls with The Full Monty; and she hasn’t worked her magic since The Snow Ball. But that they’ve come to celebrate the irresistibly dynamic Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life, rolling out the events of the our industry’s signature dance icon, not only makes us proud, but initiates lines at the box office any theatre administrator weeps to see. And just next door, in the crucible we call the Cassius Carter Centre Stage is Associate Artist Dakin Matthews, plumbing today’s headlines concerning the church’s most devastating moral crisis with The Prince of L.A., a witty and wise work he not only wrote, but in which he plays its central character, guided by the sure hand of his most astute critic and talented wife, Anne McNaughton. This year past, and the one ahead for all the world seem to be the incarnation of “the good old days!” We are thrilled you are here to share the rewards with us.

Welcome to the first round of our Winter 2005/6 Season. This unprecedented season, highlighted by not one but two world-premiere musicals, opens with the thrilling Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life, featuring one of the nation’s theatrical treasures in a Broadway-bound musical celebrating her life. We follow this up with another incredible musical event: THE TIMES THEY ARE A-CHANGIN’, conceived and directed by the incomparable Twyla Tharp to the music of legendary singer/songwriter Bob Dylan. Many of you already hold tickets to this once-in-a-lifetime theatrical event, as it is a special subscriber benefit to receive priority access to these highly-anticipated Globe productions.

It has been an exhilarating summer at The Old Globe. We began in June with our exciting Open House, which launched our 70th Anniversary celebrations while welcoming more than 3000 patrons to enjoy a free day of theatre activities. And just a few weeks ago, we honored our esteemed Founding Director Craig Noel with a 90th birthday party and dedication of his bust, created by noted sculptor Lark Grey Dimond-Cates. What a year it continues to be for the Globe, as we celebrate this 70th Anniversary as one of this country’s premiere arts institutions.

This incredible milestone could not have been achieved without your support. To reach this point in our history — having consistently produced works of the highest caliber, sending shows to New York, and offering the unparalleled plays and artists you’ve come to expect on our stages — requires a devoted patron and donor base. With ticket sales cover only 55% of our operating costs, we rely on your tax-deductible contributions to ensure our continued commitment to artistic excellence. We hope you will lend your support to the Globe as we continue our 70th Anniversary celebrations throughout the 2005/6 Season.

Like youngsters starting school each fall filled with anticipation, beginning a new season re-energizes and re-dedicates The Old Globe’s artists, craftspeople and staff. Ten productions will be brought onto the company’s stages between September and June, and each is an opportunity to reach for the impossible perfect expression to which all art aspires. Theatre began as an admixture of dance, music and poetry which told its audiences their culture’s stories. All three elements will be seen in the Globe season’s first two offerings.

Leading American dramatist Terrence McNally has crafted a narrative which leads us through the life of Broadway legend Chita Rivera. A kind of theatrical catalog of the last half century of musical theatre, Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life is a celebration in dance and song of the genre’s most distinguished creators, expressed through the life and career of one of its greatest practitioners.

Award-winning dramaturge and playwright Dakin Matthews won the 2005 Best New Play Award from the Los Angeles drama critics for his play, The Prince of L.A. It is an insightful and human study of the Catholic Church’s institutional response to the recent crises created by the conduct of some of its priests. His dialogue sounds absolutely contemporary to our ears; yet Dakin has expressed it in a frame of classical poetry.

GLOBE GUILDERS

Congratulations on your 50th anniversary!

1955-2005

Many thanks for your support!

The Globe Guilders provide funds to support the Artistic and Education programs of the Globe, and have raised more than $500,000 through various events including the annual Oscar de la Renta Fashion Show.

For information on membership in the Globe Guilders contact Rita F. David at (619) 722-1247.
Thank you for joining us as we continue in our 70th Anniversary year! One of the great strengths of The Old Globe is the variety of productions presented on our three stages, and this season is certainly no exception. With two Broadway-bound musical productions alongside delightful classics and riveting dramas, this is definitely a year to be involved with the Globe, and we’re very pleased you are continuing to make our theatre a part of your life.

We begin our 2005/2006 Season with the world premiere of the Broadway-bound musical, Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life alongside Associate Artist Dakin Matthews’ award-winning play, The Prince of L.A. Following these productions will be another high-profile production — Twyla Tharp’s latest musical based on legendary rock icon Bob Dylan. The Old Globe’s reputation for producing major acclaimed productions attracts some of the world’s top artists to San Diego, and we couldn’t be more pleased than to offer these world-class productions to you, our loyal San Diego audience.

Presenting theatre of this caliber is only possible through your continued support — as subscribers and contributors — and your involvement truly appreciated. We hope you’ll continue supporting The Old Globe for years to come. Many, many thanks, and please enjoy the show!

By Dakin Matthews

I wrote The Prince of L.A. for one very specific reason. At the time, about three years ago, I was aware, as we all were, of a great moral crisis in the Catholic Church, one that has hardly decreased in its effects today, though most of the shocking revelations are happily behind us. We ourselves have become perhaps a little less surprised as the revelations have grown almost predictable in their sameness and as one diocese after another owns up and settles (or contests) the various lawsuits against it at great financial and/or moral cost.

The papers all had a name for this crisis — the pedophilia scandal, they called it; and indeed, that did seem to be an appropriate name.

But for me, that was not the essence of the scandal, nor indeed was it the most dangerous and destructive news about the Catholic Church as an organization. For me the most troubling and relatively unexamined part of the horror was the complicity of the Church's hierarchy in protecting and perpetuating the sick and sinful actions of a comparatively few men.

I realize that to say there were comparatively few pedophiles in the priesthood sounds defensive and mealy-mouthed. Those few did tremendous, perhaps irreparable, damage first of all and most devastatingly to their victims, and ultimately to their church. But the fact remains they were a small minority — even at the most pessimistic calculation, perhaps 7 or 8 per cent.

For me the really shocking statistic is that while only a small percentage of Catholic priests were guilty of sexual abuse of minors, it seemed as if 100 per cent of Catholic bishops were clearly implicated in turning a blind eye to it, covering it up, and even perpetuating it.

So the play is not so much about pedophilia (which is a minor, but powerful theme in the piece), as it is about the way the institutional clerical psyche is formed to deal with both sexuality and scandal. One can explain pedophilia as a sickness, denounce it as a sin, and punish it as a crime. But what explains the conduct of the bishops? What were these apparently bright, apparently devout, clearly experienced men of the cloth thinking — and how did they come to think that way?

It would be easy to demonize them, and for some, perhaps, it might be appropriate. But I knew some of these men. I had studied with them before opting for a life in the world. I was still in touch with — and respected deeply — many of my former classmates who were priests; and I knew that reducing all of them to uncomplicated, pectoral-cross-twirling villains and hypocrites was simply not possible.

These bishops, these serious and spiritually sophisticated men, had a story to tell as well; it wasn't a pretty story, but it was one I wanted to tell — not to excuse them, but to understand them. I drew my storylines from news reports and from private conversations and personal experience; yet the plot, as I have drawn it, is fiction. What I hope rings true is the picture of the complex and flawed mechanism known as the clerical, and especially the episcopal, mind.

These are the men — and I could very easily have been one of them — who have been chosen to lead the Catholic church; and frankly if something is not done, I fear they may still — even after this scandal — lead it into an even more harrowing future.
A Note on the Text

The Prince of L.A. is written in rhyming verse, based on the metrical forms used in Spanish Golden Age plays. I chose to write in this verse form for two reasons.

The first was to distance the play as much as possible from the scandal-of-the-week mode so that I, and the audience, could focus less on the sensational and more on the psychological issues raised by the events occurring in the play. This would likely mean somewhat longer and more self-analyzing speeches in the play, and verse was a way of giving those speeches a more aesthetic shape and making them more powerful and pleasurable.

The second was simply to issue myself a challenge. I have been working in this verse form for a number of years, translating 17th century Spanish comedias into stageworthy contemporary English. I am a great believer in verse drama, and I felt it was time to test the depth of my belief; in other words, if poetic plays were so great, could I write an original one in rhyming verse?

The results of the experiment startled even me. I found that rather than limiting my choices, the verse was liberating. I could not write the first or most obvious thing I, or the characters, thought of; instead, we both had to follow the form and the rhyme where it needed to go — and sometimes it went strange places. It was as if the characters were guiding me, and I ended up writing scenes I never intended and never writing scenes which I had assumed, when I began, were integral to the plot. It was a fascinating journey.

For those who like the technical aspects of prosody: the verse is accentual rather than strictly metrical; that is, the number of stresses in a line creates the rhythm, not the number of stresses and syllables. (Nonetheless, because of the natural rhythms of English, the lines will obviously tend towards the iambic.) Most of the lines in this play will be tetrameter (four-stress lines); the only exception is a scene in the second act, which is written in fairly standard iambic pentameter (five-foot lines).

The rhyme schemes are my English versions of the standard Spanish schemes, including: the redondilla (a four-line stanza rhyming abba); the loose ballad rhyme (a four-line stanza rhyming only the even numbered lines: abcb); the tight ballad rhyme (a four-line stanza rhyming alternate lines: abab); the tercet or terza rima (three-line stanzas with interlocking rhymes: aba, bcb, cdc, etc.); the quintilla (a five-line stanza rhyming either abab or abaca); and the décima (a ten-line stanza rhyming abaaabcbdc). Spanish plays almost never used couplets and rarely used blank verse.

Don’t feel embarrassed if you don’t hear the rhymes or the rhythms all the time; you’re not meant to. I wrote them to have an almost subliminal effect on the listeners. I have frequently disguised them by varying emphases, using run-on lines, and even splitting words to rhyme interior syllables. You’ll hear the rhymes I want you to, and the more regular rhythms will arise, when needed, surreptitiously and will feel, I hope, quite natural rather than jarring. It’s what I call “stealth verse.” — D.M.

This play is dedicated to Z.
The Old Globe traces its beginnings to the 1935 California Exposition, when the Theatre was temporarily erected to house popular 50-minute presentations of Shakespeare’s plays. It has since grown into an internationally-acclaimed, Tony Award®-winning regional theatre that has stood as San Diego’s flagship arts institution for seven decades. Today, of the over two thousand professional theatres in the country, the Globe ranks in the top ten – in number of productions, annual budget and quality of work. Craig Noel, who celebrates his 90th birthday this year, has been a part of the Globe’s history for nearly all of its 70 years, and it is his vision that steered the Globe from a community theatre to the year-round professional organization it has become. Along the way he brought in many outstanding actors, designers and directors, including two-time Tony-winner Jack O’Brien, who became the Globe’s Artistic Director in 1981.

More than a quarter million patrons come to the Globe each year to attend one of the fifteen outstanding plays and musicals mounted on its three stages, totaling over 600 performances. The Globe’s repertoire is unparalleled, from the renowned Shakespeare Festival to classical and contemporary works, to stunning world-premiere plays and musicals, fifteen of which – including Into the Woods, The Full Monty and Dirty Rotten Scoundrels – have gone on to successful runs on Broadway. The Globe also serves the community through its award-winning education programs, such as the Young Globe Shakespeare Conservatory, in-school Shakespeare programs for high school students, as well as the bi-national Romeo y Julieta Project, which serves over one thousand students in both San Diego and Tijuana each year. Through its dynamic theatrical and educational programming, its unprecedented history of artistic leadership, and its deep roots in the community, The Old Globe sets the standard for excellence in American theatre.

THE CRAIG NOEL LEAGUE

Paving a Bright Future for The Old Globe
Through Planned Gifts

John Rebeleo and Brenda Marsh-Rebeleo have been longtime members of the Globe’s extended family. The two have been subscribers and contributors to the theatre for over twenty five years, and John is currently a member of the Globe’s Board of Directors. The two have fond memories of first attending the Globe. For Brenda, who was raised in London, she was thrilled to learn in 1981 that “little San Diego” offered such excellent theatre. John has always found the setting of The Old Globe in beautiful Balboa Park to be magical, and the two count the Globe a true treasure of the community.

John and Brenda enjoy the diversity of productions offered at the Globe each year. “They make you think,” notes John and the couple finds their evenings with friends at the Globe to be “time very well spent.”

The Rebelos have included The Old Globe in their estate plan. “We chose to become members of the Craig Noel League to play a small part in assisting the Globe to achieve its financial goals for the future. The Old Globe has given us great joy over the years, and we feel that it is our time to give something back.”

Brenda’s hopes for the Globe’s future include expanded education programming “to touch the lives of San Diego’s children, not only increasing their exposure to the arts, but to realize through the plays they will witness the variety of paths their own lives may take, and how carefully one must choose the paths he wishes to travel.” The Old Globe extends its sincere thanks to Brenda Marsh-Rebeleo and John Rebeleo for helping to pave a bright future for The Old Globe.

Many thoughtful friends are helping to secure The Old Globe’s future by leaving gifts in their wills and estate plans. We hope you might also be so moved to join them in helping to sustain the theatrical excellence of The Old Globe for years to come. We’d love to hear from you, so that we might recognize your generosity and thoughtfulness through membership in the Craig Noel League, our planned giving society. For information on leaving a lasting gift to the Globe, or to speak with one of our estate advisors, please contact Brad Ballard at (619) 231-1941 x2309 or via e-mail at plannedgiving@TheOldGlobe.org.

CRAIG NOEL, Founding Director

During Craig Noel’s distinguished 67-year career with The Old Globe, the much-honored director has staged over 225 productions of all styles and periods. Craig has been associated with The Old Globe since its community-theatre inception in 1937 when he made his debut as an actor. Two years later he accepted his first directorial assignments, staging four of the season’s seven productions.

Since then, Craig has guided the organization through its metamorphosis from a community theatre of the highest standards to one of the nation’s most successful not-for profit theatres. In doing so, he has enriched the quality of life in San Diego for generations of citizens who have become today’s theatre-goers and arts supporters.
To you – and to thousands of other San Diegans –
The Old Globe is an integral part of your lives and provides some of the best Broadway musicals, great classics and new plays in the country.

If you find you are unable to use your tickets, please give them to a friend, or turn them in to the Ticket Services Office and receive a tax receipt for your donation. Tickets must be received by show time.

Ricola Cough Drops are available upon request. Please ask an Usher.

RESTROOMS AND TELEPHONES
Restrooms are located in the lower lobby of the Old Globe Theatre and adjacent to the Festival Theatre; pay phones may be found in the lower Globe Theatre lobby and next to the Gift Shop.

SEATING OF LATECOMERS
Although we understand parking is often at a premium, the seating of latecomers is extremely disruptive. Latecomers may be given alternative seating and will be seated at an appropriate interval.

YOUNG CHILDREN
Children five years of age and under will not be admitted to performances.

ELECTRONIC DEVICES AND CAMERAS
Use of recording devices and cameras is not permitted. If you are wearing a digital watch or pager, or if you are carrying a cellular phone, please silence it prior to entering the theatre.

SENHEISER LISTENING SYSTEM
For the convenience of the hearing impaired, the Sennheiser® Listening System is available in the Old Globe Theatre. Lightweight headsets may be obtained from the house manager prior to performances, free of charge.

PUBLIC TOURS
Go behind the scenes at The Old Globe to learn about the history, three stages, shop and craft areas. Open tours: most Saturdays and Sundays at 10:30am. Groups by reservation. $5 adults; $3 seniors and students.

LOST AND FOUND
If you have misplaced a personal item while at the theatre, please contact the Ticket Services Office or Security as soon as possible. If we are unable to locate your item, we’ll happily take down your contact information as well as a description of the item and contact you if it is found. The Old Globe does not assume liability for items left behind on premises.

SPEAKERS’ BUREAU

As part of The Old Globe’s educational outreach to the community, the Theatre offers a Speakers’ Bureau program that will provide a speaker for your club, civic, or church group to talk about the Globe’s productions and programs, free of charge. The Old Globe engages several knowledgeable docents, who are available year-round to share the institution’s fascinating history and exciting information about the current season of plays. Subject to their availability, several key members of the artistic and production team are also available to speak with your group. For more information on docent speakers’ bureau representatives please contact Carol Green at (619) 582-1079. To find out about our artistic and production speakers please contact Erin Anderson at (619) 231-1941 x2355.
Louis G. Spisto
Executive Director

Louis G. Spisto has been Executive Director of The Old Globe since October, 2002. During his tenure, Spisto spearheaded the return of the Globe’s acclaimed Shakespeare Repertory Season and produced several world-premiere plays and musicals, including the current Broadway musical Dirty Rotten Scoundrels. During the past two seasons, the organization has grown its subscription audience an unprecedented amount, countering a trend in the non-profit theatre industry and resulting in the highest level of attendance in over a decade. Prior to coming to the Globe, Spisto served as the Executive Director of American Ballet Theatre in New York City. While there, he increased ticket income and annual contributions for the organization by nearly 20 percent. He also tripled the Ballet’s touring weeks and the resources devoted to education and training programs. Spisto has also served as the President of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, where he provided fundraising leadership and creative direction for the orchestra’s 660 million renovation project, and helped dramatically increase ticket sales while initiating several new series for the orchestra. Spisto established a reputation as a superb arts executive here in California, where he spent over ten years as the Executive Director of the Pacific Symphony Orchestra in Orange County. During his tenure there, he tripled the orchestra’s annual budget, all while eliminating a prior deficit and successfully completing the orchestra’s first endowment campaign. In addition, he established a series of innovative recording projects with Sony Classical and oversaw a number of nationally recognized commissioning projects. A strong advocate of arts education, Spisto built one of the largest and most respected music training and outreach efforts. During his career, Spisto has also served as Director of Marketing for the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and Director of Operations and Development for the Performing Arts Center, UC Berkeley. He holds a Masters degree from the University of Wisconsin in Arts Administration and a Bachelors of Business Administration from the University of Notre Dame, and spent many years acting, directing and producing plays and musicals throughout his student days, as well as in professional summer theatre.

Jerry Patch
Resident Artistic Director

Jerry Patch was appointed Resident Artistic Director of The Old Globe in February 2005. He most recently served as the Dramaturg and a member of the long standing artistic team at Southern California’s Tony Award®-winning South Coast Repertory (SCR), where he coordinated the development of 150 new plays, including three Pulitzer Prize winners and numerous other finalists. Patch became the top choice for this new role at the Globe due to his many years of artistic accomplishments, his exceptional relationships with the nation’s leading directors and playwrights, and his enthusiastic commitment to new work. While at SCR, Patch worked as Dramaturg on numerous new works, including Donald Margulies’ * Sight Unseen and Brooklyn Boy*, which just opened to critical acclaim on Broadway, Margaret Edson’s Pulitzer Prize-winning Wit, Howard Korder’s Search and Destroy, Amy Freed’s The Beard of Avon, as well as Intimate Apparel, Freedomland and several world-premieres plays by Richard Greenberg, including Three Days of Rain and A Naked Girl on the Appian Way. In addition, he co-conceived the Education of Randy Newman with Michael Roth and Mr. Newman. Patch also served as the project director of SCR’s renowned Pacific Playwrights Festival, which annually introduces seven new plays to an audience of national theatre leaders. Typically, more than 75% of the plays presented receive multiple productions in theatres across the country. During his tenure at SCR, Patch also held the position of Artistic Director (1990-1997) of The Sundance Theatre Program, which included the Sundance Playwrights Laboratory, one of the nation’s leading new play development programs. Additionally, he ran the Sundance Summer Theatre, a repertory of 2-3 productions staged outdoors for Utah audiences and The Sundance Children’s Theatre, which was dedicated to the development and presentation of new works for family audiences by leading American playwrights. He has also served as a consulting Dramaturg for New York’s renowned Roundabout Theatre Company, one of two of the largest theatre companies in the country.
