Dear Friends,

The 2007 Summer Season at the Globe is one of our most exciting and ambitious yet. The centerpiece, of course, is the nationally-recognized Shakespeare Festival, now in its fourth year with a repertory company. The Globe has been one of the country’s premiere producers of Shakespeare since the Theatre’s inception in 1935, and this year we offer three of the Bard’s most important works: Hamlet, The Two Gentlemen of Verona and Measure for Measure. We are fortunate that our acclaimed director Darko Tresnjak, fresh from a major success in New York and London, continues as Festival Artistic Director.

Noel Coward’s wickedly funny Hay Fever, directed by Robert Longbottom — one of today’s most sought-after directors — plays in the Old Globe Theatre, with the magical comedy Bell, Book and Candle, directed by Tresnjak, in the Cassius Carter Centre Stage.

This summer the Globe “campus” reaches beyond Balboa Park to downtown’s historic Spreckels Theatre, where we’ll be producing the west coast premiere (becoming the national tour) of the Tony Award®-winning musical, Avenue Q. Still one of the biggest recent hits on Broadway, Avenue Q is a hilarious show that’s perfectly suited to summer in San Diego!

We have much to look forward to as well — with the recently-announced 2007/08 winter schedule, highlighted by four world-premieres: A Catered Affair, starring and written by the legendary Harvey Fierstein, a new stage version of the popular MGM movie musical The Band Wagon, Hershey Felder’s world premiere, Beethoven, As I Knew Him, and In this Corner, a Globe commission about famed boxer Joe Louis.

This unprecedented slate of productions would not be possible without the support of our donors and subscribers. We urge each and every one of you to support the Globe in any way that you can during our $75 million campaign for the Theatre’s facilities needs, education programs and endowment. Through this important campaign, as well as through your continued annual support, the Globe will remain San Diego’s cultural landmark and continue to serve generations to come.
The Old Globe is deeply grateful to its Season Sponsors, each of whom has made an annual donation of $50,000 or greater. These gifts are critical to maintaining the Theatre's high quality of artistic programming and award-winning work in the community.

HAY FEVER is supported, in part, by the following generous sponsors:

In 2000 Patrons of the Prado was founded as a fundraising entity to support arts organizations and museums on the Prado in Balboa Park. On July 14, 2007, Patrons of the Prado hosts “Circus in the Park,” their ninth annual black-tie gala. Since its inception, Patrons of the Prado has raised more than $1.4 million, which directly benefits institutions in the Park, including The Old Globe.
The Old Globe is proud to recognize California Bank & Trust as a sponsor for its production of Hay Fever. California Bank & Trust is a long-time supporter of the Globe, providing volunteer and financial contributions for several productions including The Sisters Rosensweig, The Lady with All the Answers, Dinner with Friends, Julius Caesar and Pericles. Joel Ewan, Executive Vice President of California Bank & Trust, serves on the Globe’s Board of Directors, and Sandra Redman, Senior Vice President and Manager of California Bank and Trust’s Private Banking Division, serves on the Globe’s Executive Board and is the Chair of the Nominating Committee. Chris Skillern, Retired Managing Director, California Bank and Trust, also serves on the Globe’s Board of Directors.
Dear Friends,

In 1947, Globe Founding Director Craig Noel – ever the visionary – created one of the nation’s first theatre education and outreach programs, which has grown into an extensive series of activities that engage elementary through college students, as well as adults, educators and actors in training.

This year, more than 45,000 will participate in the Globe’s Education and Outreach Programs, which include reading initiatives for underserved schools, student matinee performances and lectures with artists and performers.

Through the Theatre’s Capital and Endowment Campaign, The Old Globe is raising funds to build the new Karen and Donald Cohn Education Center, as part of the new Conrad Prebys Theatre Center. This facility will greatly enhance the Globe’s ability to present education and outreach programs, performances and workshops.

I am pleased to be a part of this exciting project and want to thank each of you who help support the theatre’s education and artistic programs through your annual donations.

Kathryn Hattox, Chair
Board of Directors

The Old Globe is supported in part by grants from The City of San Diego Commission for Arts and Culture, Supervisor Pam Slater-Price and The County of San Diego.
Since 1935, The Old Globe has been an integral thread in the cultural fabric of San Diego, and with increasing attendance, balanced budgets and national recognition, The Old Globe is in one of the strongest positions in its history and is poised to secure the theatre for generations to come.

The most critical long-term need at The Globe today is to grow its endowment. An endowment is a protected investment fund that earns interest, which will provide the theatre with a reliable income stream to supplement its annual ticket sales and donations.

As part of the current campaign – Securing a San Diego Landmark – the Globe is actively seeking commitments to its endowment through planned gifts, bequests and other estate planning options.

The Old Globe would be pleased to meet with you to discuss your goals for leaving a lasting gift to the Theatre. Of course, you should also consult with your tax and legal advisers. We want this to be a “win/win” situation!

For more information, please contact Director of Development, Todd R. Schultz at (619)231-1941 x2310 or TSchultz@TheOldGlobe.org.

The Need for Endowment
Help Secure The Old Globe For Generations to Come

MAKE AN OUTRIGHT GIFT — By making outright gifts of cash, appreciated securities and real estate you will receive immediate income tax deductions and recognition of your gift at the Globe.

DONATE FROM YOUR IRA — If you are age 70 or older, you can make cash gifts to the Globe and other charities totaling $100,000 a year from your IRA without incurring income tax on the withdrawal. Act fast to take advantage of this tax provision as it expires in 2007.

LEAVE A BEQUEST — In your will or trust, you can designate the Globe as a beneficiary and that amount will be deductible in determining your taxable estate.

CREATE A CHARITABLE TRUST — While helping the Globe, you and/or your heirs can benefit now or in the future by receiving income for life or for a period of years; you will receive an immediate charitable deduction on your income tax and will avoid capital gains taxes.

When Noel Coward died in 1973, he left a legacy of more than 50 plays, 400 songs, and several volumes of prose and verse, and he'd acted in over 20 films.

The quintessential English gentleman, Noel Coward was in fact born just two weeks before 1900 into a lower-middle-class family in West London. Almost from the cradle, Noel's ambitious mother saw star potential in her precocious son, who landed his first paying acting job at the age of 10. "I was trained when I was very young as a show-off, and I've continued triumphantly until this moment," Coward remarked in a 1969 interview.

From the age of 11 onward, Noel was acting regularly, but only in minor and supporting roles. When he was 17 he made a brief appearance in D.W. Griffith's silent film, Hearts of the World. He'd become a professional actor, and his confidence in his ability was already immense. Stardom continued to elude him despite his many efforts, so he turned his hand to writing plays and revues featuring himself. In 1924, at age 24, he wrote his third play, The Vortex.

"My object in The Vortex was to write a good play, with a whacking good part in it for myself," Coward said. "And I'm thankful to say, with a few modest reservations, that I think I succeeded." His character was the drug-addicted son of a woman who made herself look ridiculous by trying to appear young and taking lovers who were half her age. As Coward later observed, "It was an immediate success. It established me as a playwright and as an actor, which was very fortunate, because up until that time I had not proved myself to be so hot in either capacity."

"The Vortex was completely new. It dealt with taboo themes, it was emotionally powerful, and it attacked the shallowness of upper-middle-class society, the very people who flocked to see it. Coward played in it for the first 10 months of its run before taking it to Broadway.

Coward soon monopolized British theatre. In 1925 he had four plays running simultaneously in the West End, and he bought his first Rolls Royce at age 26. Coward had created a style of theatre that was entirely his own. In the eight years from 1924 to 1932, he consolidated his style with plays like Hay Fever, Bittersweet, Private Lives, and Design for Living. Coward starred in all of them.

Biographer John Lahr said of Coward, "He was really the first English performer to live in what we would see as modern celebrity. He said that he was the Beatles of his era, and he wasn't wrong. He was a phenomenon."

Coward’s mastery of stage technique, along with the parts he wrote for himself, meant that by the end of the 1930s he’d perfected his public image as the sophisticated romantic lead – or, as biographer Sheridan Morley punned, “playboy of the West End world.”

“Coward’s whole life was dedicated to projecting an image of good manners,” Lahr observed. “Here was a man who was ill-educated and gay, and who was taking the whole society for a tumble – and making them imitate him. People were writing about how he talked. He was inventing a style.”

By 1940 Noel Coward had written 32 plays and 150 songs as well. Enough of them were published to wallpaper a room, albeit his lavatory, which he rechristened The Music Room.

During World War II, Coward gave concerts for the troops at Winston Churchill’s request; his sardonic song "Don't Let's Be Beastly to the Germans" earned him a place on the Nazi death list. Coward’s reputation as a frivolous playboy was cancelled out by his 1933 film Cavalcade, a cinematic phenomenon with a cast of hundreds. Based on Coward’s 1931 play, Cavalcade dealt with the fortunes of two families between the Boer and first World Wars. The extraordinary public response to Cavalcade led Coward to attempt a navy version in 1942, and to star in it himself. The result was In Which We Serve, possibly his most successful film. Coward co-directed the picture with a young film editor, David Lean, who handled the technical details while Coward worked with the actors. Further pictures followed. Another collaboration with Lean turned Coward’s one-act play Still Life into Brief Encounter (1945).

By 1956 Coward had moved to Bermuda in tax exile, but he was never completely content away from England.

He went to Las Vegas in 1955 to launch upon the gamblers his idiosyncratic brand of cabaret. It was like entertaining the troops again, except that here he was an unqualified success. At $35,000 per week, he was getting more than Las Vegas had ever paid to an entertainer, with the single exception of Liberace. Hollywood flocked to Coward’s Vegas revue. The opening night audience included Frank Sinatra, Judy Garland, and other stars; the next day, Sinatra said on the radio, “If you want to hear how a song should be sung, go to the Desert Inn and see Noel Coward.”

At retirement age, Noel Coward, the mythical figure, made a comeback. He received an enormous boost in 1964 when Laurence Olivier invited him to direct a revival of his 1924 play Hay Fever at the National Theatre. The revival (which starred Edith Evans, Maggie Smith, and Lynn Redgrave) was an instant success and transformed his fortunes again; the press and public seemed surprised at just how good a writer he was. More of his early plays were revived, and Coward found himself a fashionable celebrity once again.

In 1969 the Savoy hosted an extravagant 70th birthday party for him, and a number of illustrious colleagues and friends turned out to pay tribute. Further honors followed; he was finally knighted in 1970, and four months later he was given a special Tony Award®. But his health was already beginning to fail, and he had a succession of illnesses. He went back to Jamaica to die, and in 1973 he suffered a fatal heart attack. In 1984, a stone was unveiled in Westminster Abbey’s Poet’s Corner commemorating his life. Inscribed on the stone is a fragment of a lyric from one of Coward’s many songs: “A Talent to Amuse.”

NOEL COWARD, AS OTHERS SAW HIM
Choice Words from Famous Friends

“He can get into two or three words, just dripped out, such a witty comment on the situation. He doesn’t waste words.”
— Dame Edith Evans

“My mother said if you ever bring that naughty boy here again, I’ll turn him out.”
— Hermione Gingold

“He is punctual, polite, precise and elegant; he became as popular and as much talked about as the Prince of Wales.”
— Sir John Gielgud

“I’m a great admirer of Noel’s. I think he’s the cleverest man of our generation — a wonderful man, but he’s cruel. He’s cruel as hell, and I’m no good when people are cruel to me… When Edith Evans was in Hay Fever I’d ask, ‘Well, how are you getting on?’ And she would be in floods of tears. Yet if he walked in here now he’d be so charming and we’d all adore him — me included — but he’s hell to work with, and I never want to do anything else with him. I’d have to be starving.”
— Cicely Courtneidge

“Like all men of enormous talent or genius, he did not merely echo the age he lived in as a youth, or as a very young man, but he helped to create it. If anyone was one of the creators of what we call the 1920s nowadays, Noel was that man.”
— Michael MacLiammoir

“He’s a marvelous sick-visitor, Noel. Not that many people know that about him; what a kind man he is. I’m afraid I make it seem like a duty, whereas Noel always makes it seem a pleasure, and manages to make one feel better again.”
— Terence Rattigan

“Noel could play these nervous strange people, hysterical people, which is very rare… It’s only people who are hysterical who can play hysterical parts. You see, he could scream!”
— Dame Sybil Thorndike

“Sarcastic or sentimental, bitchy or sweet, there has never been anyone quite like him.”
— John Kander
LAHR ON COWARD

John Lahr, the son of actor Bert, is one of the theatre’s leading essayists and critics. What follows are excerpts from his book, ‘Coward the Playwright,’ published by Methuen London Ltd., 1982.

A star is his own greatest invention. Noel Coward’s plays and songs were primarily vehicles to launch his elegant persona on the world. In his clipped, bright, confident style, Coward irresistibly combined reserve and high camp.

Coward was not a thinker. His genius was for style. When his plays aspired to seriousness, the result was always slick, and when he wrote himself into the role of ardent heterosexual lover or ordinary working class bloke, the characterization is wooden. The master thinker does he become in any sense profound.

Frivolity, as Coward embodied it, was an act of freedom, of disenchantment. He had been among the first popular entertainers to give a shape to his generation’s sense of absence. His disenchantment. He had been among the first popular entertainers to give a shape to his generation’s sense of absence. His disenchantment. His reputation as a playwright rests on his genius was for style. When his plays aspired to seriousness, the result was always slick, and when he wrote himself into the role of ardent heterosexual lover or ordinary working class bloke, the characterization is wooden. The master thinker does he become in any sense profound.

The master thinker does he become in any sense profound.

COWARD ON HAY FEVER.. The idea came to me suddenly in the garden, and I finished it in about three days, a fact which later on, when I had become news value, seemed to excite gossip-writers inordinately, although why the public should care whether a play takes three days or three years to write I shall never understand. Perhaps they don’t. However, when I had finished it and had it neatly typed and bound up, I read it through and was rather unimpressed with it. This was an odd sensation for me, as in those days I was almost always enchanted with everything I wrote. I knew certain scenes were good, especially the breakfast scene in the last act, and the dialogue between the giggling flapper and the diplomat in the first act, but apart from these it seemed to me a little tedious. I think that the reason for this was that I was passing through a transition stage as a writer; my dialogue was becoming more natural and less elaborate, and I was beginning to concentrate more on the comedy values of the situation rather than the comedy values of actual lines. I expect that when I read through Hay Fever for the first time, I was subconsciously bemoaning its lack of snappy epigrams.

LAHR ON COWARD’S HAY FEVER... In Hay Fever, the first and the finest of his major plays, he gives malice and bad manners an outing. In so doing, the play not only chronicles a new caste in English life but a shift in behaviour. In the years to come, the Blisses’ manners would prevail. ‘Let [Coward] spare us more of these silly children,’ pleaded the Sunday Times. But these silly children were the next generation of the well-to-do — a generation for whom Coward was both a spokesman and a myth. ‘There is no one now writing who has more obviously a gift for the theatre than Mr. Noël Coward, nor more influence with young writers,’ wrote Somerset Maugham in 1929, in an American volume of Coward’s plays that included Hay Fever. ‘It is probably his inclination and practice that will be responsible for the manner in which plays will be written during the next thirty years’.

...Coward’s best work follows, more or less, this recipe for chaos. His reputation as a playwright rests on Hay Fever, Private Lives, Design for Living (1932), Present Laughter (1942), Blithe Spirit (1941) and the brilliant cameo Hands Across the Sea (1936). In all these comedies of bad manners, the characters are grown-up adolescents. There is no family life to speak of, no children, no commitment except to pleasure. The characters do no real work; and money, in a time of world depression, hunger marches and war, is taken for granted. Monsters of vanity and selfishness, they appeal to the audience because their frivolity has a kind of stoic dignity.

Written fast and in full, confident flow (Hay Fever – five days; Private Lives – four days; Present Laughter and Blithe Spirit – six days), Coward’s best work has the aggressive edge of his high spirits. And when, in the fifties, his plays no longer found favour, he took frivolity’s message to the public in person as a cabaret turn, brilliantly mocking his audiences’ appetite for anxiety with such impish songs as ‘Why must the show go on?’ and ‘There are bad times just around the corner.’

...It was not the situations of English life (except for Blithe Spirit his comedies have no substantial plots) but the sound of it, that interested Coward. When, in Hay Fever, Simon Bliss admits to his mother that he hasn’t washed, Judith says: ‘You should darling, really. It’s so bad for your skin to leave things about on it.’ Coward loves such fliting vagueness and he has left modern theatre a number of cunning pen portraits of this endangered species...

It is the frivolity in his plays which has proved timeless. The reason is simple. Frivolity acknowledges the futility of life while adding flavour to it.

“There are so many opportunities to help make a positive difference in San Diego,” says Kathryn Hattox, “but nothing gets me as emotionally involved as the arts do; specifically The Old Globe.” Mrs. Hattox is a native San Diegan and the Chair of the Board of Directors at The Old Globe. Although she is an incredibly active member of the Globe’s leadership, this is just the current focus in a life dedicated to supporting her community.

“I think that people who have been fortunate enough to accumulate assets that they don’t need for ordinary living should share them with the public,” says Mrs. Hattox. “That’s my theory.” As a supporter of a number of local charitable organizations, Mrs. Hattox puts that theory to work everyday.

In addition to her efforts at The Old Globe, Mrs. Hattox is a long-time supporter of many of the cultural institutions in Balboa Park. She is particularly fond of the San Diego Zoo. In fact, the hippopotamus exhibit at the Zoo is named after her late husband. “Every time family members visit the Zoo, we always stop to take a look at Grandpa’s hippo pool.”

When asked about her work in the community, she puts things succinctly, “It is meaningful to see the people in the community enjoy the things to which one has donated their time and money.” And at a time when many people can’t seem to find enough time to help others, Mrs. Hattox has renewed her dedication to charitable giving.

“I’ve decided to accelerate my giving because it is nice to see the gifts in action. There’s not much point in waiting until you’re dead when you can’t see anything. I’ve been donating gifts in this community for quite a while because I’ve been very fortunate financially. But recently I realized that I should start giving more now. I’m hoping that people will be inspired by all of the amazing things that are going on at the Globe. I’ve been coming to the Globe for fifty years, and I hope that I can help to ensure that others will have that same wonderful experience.”

Mrs. Hattox exemplifies the kind of community spirit that makes San Diego America’s finest city. The Old Globe is proud to recognize Kathryn Hattox as a volunteer, a donor and a friend.
The Old Globe's ability to maintain the highest standard of excellence, while keeping ticket prices affordable, is due in large part to the financial support of more than 3,500 individuals, businesses, foundations and government agencies. Please join us in giving a warm thanks and recognition to these leaders who have made tonight and our 625 other performances possible. The Old Globe appreciates the support of those who have stepped into the spotlight.

LOUIS G. SPISTO
Executive Director

Louis G. Spisto has served as Executive Director of The Old Globe since October 2002. During his tenure, Spisto spearheaded the return of the Globe’s acclaimed Shakespeare Repertory Season and produced several world-premiere plays and musicals, including Dirty Rotten Scoundrels, Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life, and the Twyla Tharp/ Bob Dylan musical, The Times They Are A-Changin’. which transferred to Broadway in September 2006, along with the Globe’s annual holiday favorite, Dr. Seuss’ How the Grinch Stole Christmas! In March, 2006, Spisto spearheaded the launch of the Globe’s Capital Campaign, “Securing a San Diego Landmark,” to raise $75 million by the Theatre’s 75th anniversary in 2010. The campaign is off to a hugely successful start, having reached 61% of its goal. During the past four seasons, the organization has grown its subscription audience an unprecedented amount, countering a trend in the non-profit theatre industry, resulting in the highest level of attendance in over a decade. Prior to coming to the Globe, Spisto served as the Executive Director of American Ballet Theatre in New York City. While there, he increased ticket income and annual contributions for the organization by nearly 20 percent. He also tripled the Ballet’s touring weeks and the resources devoted to education and training programs. Spisto has also served as President of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, where he provided fundraising leadership and creative direction for the orchestra’s $60 million renovation project, and helped dramatically increase ticket sales while initiating several new series for the orchestra. Spisto established a reputation as a superb arts executive here in California, where he spent over ten years as the Executive Director of the Pacific Symphony Orchestra in Orange County. During his tenure there, he tripled the orchestra’s annual budget, all while eliminating a prior deficit and successfully completing the orchestra’s first endowment campaign. In addition, he established a series of innovative recording projects with Sony Classical and oversaw a number of nationally recognized commissioning projects. A strong advocate of arts education, Spisto built one of the largest and most respected music training and outreach efforts. During his career, Spisto has also served as Director of Marketing for the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and Director of Operations and Development for the Performing Arts Center, UC Berkeley. He holds a Masters degree from the University of Wisconsin in Arts Administration and a Bachelors of Business Administration from the University of Notre Dame, and spent many years acting, directing and producing plays and musicals throughout his student days, as well as in professional summer theatre.

JERRY PATCH
Resident Artistic Director

Jerry Patch was appointed Resident Artistic Director of The Old Globe in February 2005. He most recently served as the Dramaturg and a member of the long standing artistic team at Southern California’s Tony Award®-winning South Coast Repertory (SCR), where he coordinated the development of 150 new plays, including two Pulitzer Prize winners and numerous other finalists. Patch became the top choice for this new role at the Globe due to his many years of artistic accomplishments, his exceptional relationships with the nation’s leading directors and playwrights, and his enthusiastic commitment to new work. While at SCR, Patch worked as Dramaturg on numerous new works, including Donald Margulies’ Sight Unseen and Brooklyn Bay, which opened to critical acclaim on Broadway; Margaret Edson’s Pulitzer Prize-winning Wit, Howard Korder’s Search and Destroy, Amy Freed’s The Beard of Avon, Safe in Hell* and Freedland; Lynn Nottage’s Intimate Apparel and nine world-premieres by Richard Greenberg, including Three Days of Rain. In addition, he co-conceived the The Education of Randy Newman with Michael Roth and Mr. Newman. Patch also served as the project director of SCR’s renowned Pacific Playwrights Festival, which annually introduces seven new plays to an audience of national theatre leaders. Typically, more than 75% of the plays presented receive multiple productions in theatres across the country. During his tenure at SCR, Patch also held the position of Artistic Director (1990-1997) of The Sundance Theatre Program, which included the Sundance Playwrights Laboratory, one of the nation’s leading new play development programs. Additionally, he ran the Sundance Summer Theatre, a repertory of 2-3 productions staged outdoors for Utah audiences and The Sundance Children’s Theatre, which is dedicated to the development and presentation of new works for family audiences by leading American playwrights. He also serves as Consulting Dramaturg for New York’s Roundabout Theatre Company.

JACK O’BRIEN
Artistic Director

Mr. O’Brien has been the Artistic Director of The Old Globe in San Diego since 1982. Recent Globe productions: *Dirty Rotten Scoundrels, Imaginary Friends, Twelfth Night, The Full Monty, The Seagull, The Magic Fire, Dr. Seuss’ How the Grinch Stole Christmas!, The world premieres of Associate Artist A.R.
