Dear Friends,

The Globe is thrilled to bring to its stages two such different yet equally evanescent comedies as the next two shows in our 2006/2007 season. In the Old Globe Theatre we welcome back director and Tony Award®-winner John Rando, who is at the helm of Restoration Comedy by Pulitzer Prize finalist Amy Freed. On the Cassius Carter Centre Stage, we are pleased to bring back Old Globe favorite Kirsten Brandt to direct award-winning playwright Annie Weisman’s workplace comedy, Hold Please.

Thus far 2007 is proving to be another remarkable year for the Globe. The new musical ACE delighted audiences of all ages, playing to emotion-filled standing ovations at each and every performance. As part of the Globe’s free student matinee program, two special performances of ACE were given for over 1,200 middle and high school students who cheered ecstatically. Our audiences, were equally enthusiastic about the world premiere of Itamar Moses amusing, unique and important The Four of Us.

These new and inventive works and the Globe’s essential Education programs could not be possible without your help. As you know, ticket sales cover only a portion of the cost of these projects, and your annual donation is key to our being able to serve this community.

Once again we thank you for your devotion and your continued support.
The Old Globe is deeply grateful to its Season Sponsors, each of whom has made an annual donation of $50,000 or greater. These gifts are critical to maintaining the Theatre’s high quality of artistic programming and award-winning work in the community.

Donors Get a Peek Behind the Scenes: Meet the Artist Series

Through the Globe’s “Meet the Artist” series, you can learn more about the lives and work of Globe artists, as they talk candidly about their careers, personal interests and lives in the theatre. These evenings begin with an hors d’oeuvre reception, followed by a presentation by an artist, who talks about his or her career and takes questions from the audience.

The “Meet the Artist” series includes artist interviews each year offered as complimentary events for annual donors of $500 or more. This series is just one of the many ways we can thank you for your support of this great theatre, and we hope you can attend these events in the future.

Globe artists who have participated in the “Meet the Artist” series include Sandy Duncan, Hershey Felder, Darko Tresnjak, Marion Ross, Paul Michael, Jerry Patch, Jack O’Brien, Robert Taylor and Richard Oberacker.

Mary Beth Adderley-Wright and Richard Wright, and Elizabeth Adderley

Mary Beth Adderley-Wright and Richard Wright are both long-time San Diegans who have enjoyed The Old Globe for many years. Mary Beth is an active member of The Old Globe’s Board of Directors. She also serves on the Vanderbilt Board of Trust and the Board of South Coast Repertory. Richard is supportive of San Diego’s live theatre and local fine arts venues. He is a retired Air Force officer whose passion turned from flying to sailing. He is a Staff Commodore of the Ancient Mariners Sailing Society — a group dedicated to the preservation and promotion of classic sea vessels. Along with Mary Beth’s daughter Elizabeth, the two regularly attend The Old Globe, and encourage friends and colleagues to do the same. In addition, Richard and Mary Beth further support the Theatre by hosting dinners in their home featuring artists and other members of The Old Globe’s creative team.

Thanks to support from many generous contributors, The Old Globe is one of the leading theatres in the United States and a cultural icon in San Diego. Join these donors today by calling (619) 231-1941 ext. 2311 and contributing to the theatre’s annual fund in support of artistic and education programs.
Dear Friends,

Many of us attending the Globe today have seen this organization grow from a respected community theatre to one of the most prominent theatres in the United States. The Old Globe is truly a San Diego landmark, and it is incumbent upon us – the current subscribers, donors and attendees – to ensure this cultural icon's future.

A solid endowment is the key to securing that future. When I established my estate plans, I chose to join the Craig Noel League – the Globe’s planned giving program – as the Globe has been a family tradition, and I want to ensure that future generations can enjoy this great theatre.

The Globe offers estate-planning partnerships that are advantageous to you, your heirs and the theatre. To learn more about planned giving, please contact our Development Office at (619) 231-1941 ext. 2309.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I thank you for making the Globe a tradition and part of your life. We hope that you will continue to be involved as a patron and a supporter. Enjoy the show!

The Importance of Endowment

Help Secure The Old Globe for Generations to Come

With an annual budget of $19 million, The Old Globe is one of the ten leading theatres, out of more than 2,000 in the United States. However, compared to other prominent performing arts organizations throughout the country, the Globe has a small endowment of only $3 million. As part of the “Capital and Endowment Campaign: Securing a San Diego Landmark,” The Old Globe is seeking to address this critical need with your support.

The purpose of an endowment is to secure the theatre for the long term, to ensure financial stability through leaner economic times. As a rule, an institution like the Globe needs an endowment approximately two to three times the size of its annual budget, which would be an endowment of a minimum of $40 million.

By drawing on the interest earned from the endowment, the theatre receives a reliable annual income to supplement annual ticket sales, regular annual contributions, grants, sponsorships and other earned income. Endowment gifts are typically made through estate plans and other planned giving options, and to this end the Craig Noel League was created. This league is named in honor of the Globe’s Founding Director, Craig Noel, who has been associated with this theatre since 1937, and guided the Globe to become one of the nation’s most successful not-for-profit theatres.

Members of the Craig Noel League have notified the Globe of their intent to include the Globe in their estate plans. We look forward to hearing from you about joining the Craig Noel League. Please contact Brad Ballard at (619) 231-1941 x2309 and help preserve the Globe for generations to come.

The advancement of women in the workplace over the last thirty years brought with it an unforeseen irony: adverse competition between female workers.

Recently, the U.S. Department of Labor reported that the women's labor force participation rate had increased from 43% in 1970 to 59% in 2004. Furthermore, women have more job options than their predecessors; more women than ever own their own businesses, according to the U.S. Census of 2002. Despite this progress, additional studies show that women are having difficulty working together. A Gallup Poll conducted in 2002 indicated that 32% of women preferred a male boss, whereas only 23% preferred a female. Another study, conducted in 1999 by psychologist Dr. Judith Briles, stated that 75% of respondents (both male and female) reported being the subject of sabotaging behavior by a woman. Dr. Briles estimates that the damage by this “sabotage” costs American businesses $39 billion per year.

In her 2005 book, journalist Nan Mooney interviewed over 100 women about their experiences with work-related competition. Aply titled I Can't Believe She Did That! Why Women Betray Other Women at Work, the book claims that women avoid direct conflict and instead engage in covert and dishonest competition, often resulting in damaged or broken relationships.

Experts are publishing manuals on how to maintain a healthy work environment between women. Noted psychologist Dr. Lynne M. Hornyk, in her article “Competition: How Women Can Hold Their Own in the Workplace” (2003), defines “toxic vs. healthy” competition, and suggests ways that women “can move forward to embrace competition.” Motivational speaker Jodell A. Raymond calls women's competition “The Dark Side of Sisterhood,” and identifies reasons for detrimental work relationships, including childhood experience and generational differences.

Front (Office)

Neela Banerjee, writing in the Business Day section of the August 10, 2001 New York Times, reports on a Mountain View, California, women’s support group which meets the first Thursday of every month. They sit in a circle and confess: “I’m Suzann, and I’m a recovering bully broad...or maybe a relapsing one.” “I came here—excuse me, I was sent here—because of my intolerance for incompetence, and for having a passion for my job that scared people to death.”

Sounds like an AA meeting. But these women are raging successes, with six figure incomes earned in key executive positions. Their tough, no-nonsense ways have intimidated their subordinates, colleagues, and bosses, and brought them to Bully Broads, an executive coaching program.

It advises them to achieve even more by going back to being ladies. No more ’80s activist stances. Learn to pause, be thoughtful — stammer even — cry, but talk calmly through the tears.

Nearly all the group’s 17 members were sent because of their intimidating management styles. “Many of the things these women do would not be as inappropriate in a man,” the program’s director, Jean Hollands, said. “We want these women to be more powerful and not feel more victimized, thinking ‘We don’t get the same consideration men do.’ We don’t. So what? We’ve only been in the work force as leaders for 50 years. Men have a 600-year head start on us.” — Jerry Patch

. . . at Work

“I come home in the morning light
My mother says when you gonna live your life right.
Oh mother dear we’re not the fortunate ones
And girls just want to have fun...”
When the working day is done
Girls — they just want to have fun.”
—from Girls Just Want to Have Fun by Robert Hazard; performed by Cyndi Lauper

“Men must work, and women must weep.”
— Charles Kingsley, The Three Fishers

29. WORKING GIRLS
The working girls in the morning are going to work — long lines of them about amid the downtown stores and factories, thousands with little brick-shaped lunches wrapped in newspapers under their arms.
Each morning as I move through this river of young woman life I feel a wonder about where it is all going, so many with a peach bloom of young years on them and laughter of red lips and memories in their eyes of dances the night before and plays and walks.
Green and gray streams run side by side in a river and so here are always the others, those who have been over the way, the women who know each one the end of life’s gamble for her, the meaning and the clew, the how and the way of the dances and the arms that passed around their waists and the fingers that played in their hair.
Faces go by written over: “I know it all, I know where the bloom and the laughter go and I have memories,” and the feet of these move slower and they have wisdom where the others have beauty. So the green and the gray move in the early morning on the downtown streets.
—Carl Sandburg, Chicago Poems
WEISMAN’S WOMEN

“SolomonXavierGreenspanSachs—No he’s not c’I take a message.”

It’s a litany for the women who cover the firm’s offices in Hold Please, Annie Weisman’s nine-to-five workplace comedy. The eponymous quartet of partners is rarely in the office; they arrive late, leave early, and are often out of town to attend conferences, seminars and recreational retreats.

The four who hold their fort are drawn from two generations of working women. Agatha and Grace date back to the “ditto days” before copiers. They’ve been with SXG&S long enough to qualify for the rainbow benefits package. Erika and Jessica are in their mid-20s, and bring a contemporary post-feminist sensibility to the workplace, often to the distress of Agatha and Grace.

Playwright Annie Weisman, a San Diego native, illustrates the humor and heartbreak in a workplace forever changed by the feminist movement. She tracks the lives of women whose generation won important gains and the ones who followed, claiming them as their birthright.

In so doing, she steps past political correctness with confidence enough to use her four characters to re-examine what has truly been gained and lost.

GETTING OFF ‘HOLD’

Her agent’s submission of her first play, Be Aggressive, which received its premiere production at La Jolla Playhouse in 2001, introduced Annie Weisman — the playwright — to the regional theatre scene. Until that time she had been Annie, the mid-20s assistant to the Associate Artistic Directors at the Mark Taper Forum.

Commissions from South Coast Repertory, Audrey Skirball-Kenis Theater Projects, and Rhode Island’s Trinity Repertory allowed Weisman to leave her day job and pursue playwriting full time.

Weisman is a fifth generation resident of Los Angeles, but she was born in San Diego where her mother, an urban planner, and her father, a physician, lived for two decades. She attended Torrey Pines High School in Del Mar, where she was a cheerleader and a fledgling writer.

She began in theatre as an actress, but immediately caught the ear of Deborah Salzer, director of San Diego’s Young Playwrights Project, with her first efforts at playwriting. Weisman’s short play, We’re Talking Today Here, won one of Salzer’s competitions and was given a production at The Old Globe.

Weisman went east to Williams College as an English Lit major — she was never a drama student — and spent her junior year at Oxford. After graduating, she planned on beginning graduate school, but took a job at the Taper instead.

“Each year I intended to start a graduate program, but working at the Taper became my drama school — interning and loitering around the Taper halls, hanging out with the artists who came through and seeing how they worked,” Weisman said.

In Hold Please, Weisman was interested in exploring “divisions between generations of women at work.”

“I found it kind of ironic that women were supposed to be nurturing and supportive of each other, but in the workplace it seemed that competition between women was more intense than it was for men.”

Her success with playwriting eventually led her into the faster-paced world of television, where she quickly built a reputation as a talented writer for shows like Dead Like Me, Inconceivable and her current assignment Heartland.

“Well, it’s everything that everybody says,” she laughs when asked how TV writing compares to playwriting. “In TV, you don’t own your work at the end of the day. But when you have the chance to work with incredibly talented people, and you have the immediate gratification of seeing your work on the screen — it can be great.” She pauses. “Plays just have such a long genesis.”

She has not, however, fully traded in the world of live theatre for television. Her newest play, The Surf Report, was commissioned by SCR, and her musical adaptation of “Alice in Wonderland,” The Essential Alice, is under consideration for production at La Jolla Playhouse.

The Globe’s production of Hold Please marks a kind of homecoming for Weisman, who fondly remembers her childhood here. “I am definitely a product of San Diego,” she admits. “I participated in the Junior Theatre summer camp, I went through the Young Playwrights Project, and I saw plays both at the Old Globe and at La Jolla Playhouse.”

As she reflects on how this has shaped her career, she adds, “There’s also this mythic quality about California — and how it’s a place for beginnings and discovery. I think that metaphor has always informed my work.”

THE TWO GENTLEMEN OF VERONA
Directed by Matt August
Valentine and Proteus are the best of friends— that is, of course, until a woman comes between them. Friendship and passion entangle all in this clever comedy about the fickle nature of love and the jealousies that can drive people mad with desire.

HAMLET
Directed by Darko Tresnjak
The most performed and celebrated play in the world, HAMLET is the greatest tragedy ever written in the English language. This extraordinary story of revenge and madness will be brought to the Festival stage as only The Old Globe can.

MEASURE FOR MEASURE
Directed by Paul Mullins
When a wise and fair Duke leaves his position to a strict tyrant, severe measures are enforced that may lead the city to ruin. But is the Duke truly gone, or embroiled in a clever scheme? Will the tyrant’s ego and injustice conquer all, or will righteousness get its just desserts?
The Old Globe's ability to maintain the highest standard of excellence, while keeping ticket prices affordable, is due in large part to the financial support of more than 3,500 individuals, businesses, foundations and government agencies. Please join us in giving a warm thanks and recognition to these leaders who have made tonight and our 625 other performances possible. The Old Globe appreciates the support of those who have stepped into the spotlight.

LOUIS G. SPISTO
Executive Director

Louis G. Spisto has served as Executive Director of The Old Globe since October 2002. During his tenure, Spisto spearheaded the return of the Globe’s acclaimed Shakespeare Repertory Season and produced several world-premiere plays and musicals, including Dirty Rotten Scoundrels, Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life, and the Twyla Tharp/Bob Dylan musical, The Times They Are A-Changin’, which transferred to Broadway in September, 2006, along with the Globe’s annual holiday favorite, Dr. Seuss’ How the Grinch Stole Christmas!. In March, 2006, Spisto spearheaded the launch of the Globe’s Capital Campaign, “Securing a San Diego Landmark,” to raise $75 million by the Theatre’s 75th anniversary in 2010. The campaign is off to a hugely successful start, having reached 61% of its goal. During the past four seasons, the organization has grown its subscription audience an unprecedented amount, countering a trend in the non-profit theatre industry, resulting in the highest level of attendance in over a decade. Prior to coming to the Globe, Spisto served as the Executive Director of American Ballet Theatre in New York City. While there, he increased ticket income and annual contributions for the organization by nearly 20 percent. He also tripled the Ballet’s touring weeks and the resources devoted to education and training programs. Spisto has also served as the President of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, where he provided fundraising leadership and creative direction for the orchestra’s $60 million renovation project, and helped dramatically increase ticket sales while initiating several new series for the orchestra. Spisto established a reputation as a superb arts executive here in California, where he spent over ten years as the Executive Director of the Pacific Symphony Orchestra in Orange County. During his tenure there, he tripled the orchestra’s annual budget, all while eliminating a prior deficit and successfully completing the orchestra’s first endowment campaign. In addition, he established a series of innovative recording projects with Sony Classical and oversaw a number of nationally recognized commissioning projects. A strong advocate of arts education, Spisto built one of the largest and most respected music training and outreach efforts. During his career, Spisto has also served as Director of Marketing for the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and Director of Operations and Development for the Performing Arts Center, UC Berkeley. He holds a Masters degree from the University of Wisconsin in Arts Administration and a Bachelors of Business Administration from the University of Notre Dame, and spent many years acting, directing and producing plays and musicals throughout his student days, as well as in professional summer theatre.

JERRY PATCH
Resident Artistic Director

Jerry Patch was appointed Resident Artistic Director of The Old Globe in February 2005. He most recently served as the Dramaturg and a member of the long standing artistic team at Southern California’s Tony Award®-winning South Coast Repertory (SCR), where he coordinated the development of 150 new plays, including two Pulitzer Prize winners and numerous other finalists. Patch became the top choice for this new role at the Globe due to his many years of artistic accomplishments, his exceptional relationships with the nation’s leading directors and playwrights, and his enthusiastic commitment to new work. While at SCR, Patch worked as Dramaturg on numerous new works, including Donald Margulies’ Sight Unseen and Brooklyn Boy, which opened to critical acclaim on Broadway; Margaret Edson’s Pulitzer Prize-winning Wit; Howard Korder’s Search and Destroy: Amy Freed’s The Beard of Avon, Safe in Hell and Freedomland; Lynn Nottage’s Intimate Apparel and nine world-premieres by Richard Greenberg, including Three Days of Rain. In addition, he co-conceived The Education of Randy Newman with Michael Roth and Mr. Newman. Patch also served as the project director of SCR’s renowned Pacific Playwrights Festival, which annually introduces seven new plays to an audience of national theatre leaders. Typically, more than 75% of the plays presented receive multiple productions in theatres across the country. During his tenure at SCR, Patch also held the position of Artistic Director (1990-1997) of The Sundance Theatre Program, which included the Sundance Playwrights Laboratory, one of the nation’s leading new play development programs. Additionally, he ran the Sundance Summer Theatre, a repertory of 2-3 productions staged outdoors for Utah audiences and The Sundance Children’s Theatre, which is dedicated to the development and presentation of new works for family audiences by leading American playwrights. He also serves as Consulting Dramaturg for New York’s Roundabout Theatre Company.

JACK O’BRIEN
Artistic Director
