Dear Friends,

It has been an exhilarating summer at The Old Globe. We began with our Open House in June, which drew thousands of visitors to experience what goes on behind the scenes at this extraordinary three-theatre complex. Our Summer Shakespeare Festival garnered raves from critics and audiences across the board, while our production of The Sisters Rosensweig was one of the best-selling plays in Globe history.

We now begin our 2006/7 Winter Season with the acclaimed production of Hershey Felder as George Gershwin Alone, a fascinating musical play about the life and work of one of America’s most celebrated composers. The Carter plays host to Pig Farm, a co-world premiere by Tony Award-winner Greg Kotis (Urinetown) that takes a satirical look at farming in America today.

This fall the Globe will be represented heavily on Broadway as well. In October, last season’s sold-out production of the Twyla Tharp/Bob Dylan musical, THE TIMES THEY ARE A-CHANGIN’, will open at the Brooks Atkinson Theatre, and just two weeks later, our annual holiday favorite — Dr. Seuss’ How the Grinch Stole Christmas! — will open at the Hilton Theatre. 2006 will have seen four Globe shows playing in New York, including Dirty Rotten Scoundrels, and the thrilling Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life, bringing the total to 19 Globe shows that have transferred to Broadway!

These incredible offerings would not be possible without your ongoing support. To consistently produce these works of the highest caliber, send shows to Broadway, and offer the unparalleled plays and artists you’ve come to expect on our stages — requires a devoted patron and donor base. Having recently launched a $75 million capital campaign to help build the Globe’s endowment and enhance our facilities, we rely on your tax-deductible contributions more than ever to ensure our continued commitment to artistic excellence and to help sustain the Theatre’s esteemed place among the nation’s leading arts organizations, as well as within the cultural fabric of the San Diego community.

“FOLLOW THE BARD” TOURS

Middle and high school student groups are invited to take a field trip to the Globe for a behind-the-scenes “Shakespeare Scavenger Hunt.” Throughout the tour, students discover how the magic of theatre is created on the Globe’s three stages and search for hidden objects that introduce details of Shakespeare’s plays and characters, as well as Elizabethan history and folklore.

For reservations or more information about tours, contact Holly Ward at (619) 238-0043 x2142.
Dear Friends,

Children throughout San Diego County are returning to their classrooms, and The Old Globe is joining them with some of our best education programs yet. With these programs, the Globe provides learning experiences for young audiences through the exploration of language, history and human nature.

For our in-school touring program this fall the featured play is The Stones, a powerful story of two teenagers who discover the harsh consequences of seemingly harmless decisions. Based on a true story, The Stones was written specifically for at-risk youth and helps encourage discussions about peer pressure and personal responsibility.

Other Globe education programs this fall include the Shakespeare Initiatives and the ever-popular Grinch Children's Initiatives, which includes more than 14,000 free and discounted tickets for children to attend a performance of Dr. Seuss' How the Grinch Stole Christmas!

Education programs are a significant component of the Globe's mission. Currently through our Capital Campaign, The Old Globe is raising critical funds to build a new Education Center on the Globe campus. This facility will greatly enhance the Globe's ability to present education and outreach programs, performances and workshops.

To support these efforts, we are seeking special funding, and many of you will soon receive gift requests by mail. Please consider giving generously to help the Globe and its mission to reach out to students throughout our community.

On behalf of the Board, I thank you for making the Globe a part of your life.

TITLES BY KOTIS (UH-OH…)

Greg Kotis’ show titles make theatre marketing directors nervous.

Kotis’ Broadway debut was the infamously-titled Urinetown, a collaboration with composer Mark Hollmann that began at the New York Fringe Festival, and then burst onto the Great White Way with a new comic vision. Urinetown, in spite (or because?) of its title, ran for more than two years on Broadway and went on to win three Tony Awards, and was nominated for Best Musical. The story of a town that charges its citizens a fee to use public urinals, Urinetown’s outrageous premise and irreverent style struck a chord with critics and audiences alike.

Urinetown came out of Kotis’ trip to Paris, where public toilets are for rent. He wondered how an American city might react if their right to free toilet use was taken away, and began creating the show with Hollmann, with whom Kotis shares what he calls an “offbeat, unlikely humor.”

“[With Urinetown] we wanted to be funny and be true to how we see things,” Kotis told Playbill magazine. “We’re trying to reveal things we think we know [about] organizations, consumption — and that we live in a time of peril whether we know it or not.”

Pig Farm began with a similar train of thought. In 1999, Kotis was reading a newspaper account of Hurricane Floyd’s devastation in North Carolina, which left 100,000 factory pigs drowned and floating in neighboring rivers.

“It was a catastrophe of biblical proportions,” Kotis said in an interview with the Roundabout Theatre Company’s Randy Gener. “Pig farming has gone from 200 years ago [where] you had a small number of pigs on the farm that you would slaughter periodically — to today where we have these industrial confinement factory farming operations.”

He was alarmed by the “apocalyptic vision” of thousands of dead pigs, and began to think of two men discussing a pig count.

“I wanted to know who these men were,” he said in an L.A. Times interview with Jan Breslauer. “[I wanted to know] why knowing the number of pigs mattered.”

His exploration of human consumption and its consequences will take an alternate form in his next project, another musical collaboration with Hollman, appropriately-titled (for Kotis, anyway) Yeast Nation.

“[It’s] a very odd piece that takes place underwater, in the primordial soup,” he said.

For all the humor and provocation in the titles of his shows, his intent in writing is clear. “What makes sense to me is this: Our situation as a people is, I suspect, going to be tougher and tougher, if we believe the scientists. [But] we’re collectively choosing to look the other way. ...That insecurity is why I feel I’m connected to this issue — the world is fragile and very delicate.”

At least for now, we have the luxury of still being able to laugh at those apocalyptic predicaments of the characters in Kotis’ plays. Ironically, that laughter might bring us to take them seriously.

—Kim Montelibano Heil

More than any other time in history, mankind faces a crossroads. One path leads to despair and utter hopelessness; the other, to total extinction. Let us pray we have the wisdom to choose correctly.

—Woody Allen

PIG FARM FACTS:

- A pig’s tail indicates how the pig is feeling. A curly tail shows health and happiness while a straight tail shows sickness or distress.
- Pigs can drink up to 4 gallons of water a day.
- Factory-raised pigs never see the light of day. Male and female pigs never meet. The sows are artificially inseminated.
- Factory sows give birth to and wean litters of 8 to 12 piglets, producing 3 or more litters a year.
- Piglets are separated from the pigs to keep them from being eaten. They also need special attention, including being kept in warm temperatures.
- Pigs have no sweat glands: they rely on shade and water to keep cool. Some barns have sprinkler systems for cooling pigs. So, “sweating like a pig” is to not sweat at all.
- A pig’s squeal can reach up to 115 decibels, 3 decibels higher than the sound of a supersonic Concorde.
- The pig is rated the 4th most intelligent animal.
- One sow produces 3.5 gallons of manure and waste per day.
- Each 220-pound live hog produces about 145 pounds of saleable pork, including ham, pork chops and sausages, bacon, ribs, ground pork, hocks and stewing meat.
- North Carolina and Iowa rank highest in pork production.
- In the past 15 years, the number of pig farms has dropped from 600,000 to 157,000, yet the country’s pig inventory has remained the same; 3% of the nations pig farms produce more than 50% of the nation’s pork.

— compiled by Jaime Castañeda
How Ya Gonna Keep ‘Em Down on the Farm?

Greg Kotis’ Pig Farm begins in the manner of many Hollywood westerns. A lone hero (say Gary Cooper in High Noon) — or a hero, his sidekick and his good woman (say Matt, Chester and Kitty from Gunsmoke) fuss and fret on a fateful showdown day, trying to beat outrageous odds dead set against them.

The circumstances in those films were always as heightened and overblown as the alliteration used above to describe them; and always the white hats, like the Duke or Clint, were clearly distinguished from the black ones.

Those westerns embodying American myths of success and right vs. wrong came out of simpler times, when opportunities and new technologies abounded, and the world was beset by two villains with bushy mustaches who between them killed tens of millions without reason. Where Hitler and Stalin were concerned, there was no question as to the color of their hats, even to many of their own citizens.

But in half a century, the world has changed, and those changes have come less from military force than from the forces of economics. Consider: in 1950, a can of tennis balls cost nearly $3; in 2006 that can, now a plastic tube, can be bought for $2.25. A golf ball that sold for $1 in 1950 costs less than a dollar today. Technological advances and marketing competition have turned profit margins razor thin, and those companies and entrepreneurs that can’t compete disappear from the market.

The same has been true for the American farmer. Despite price supports and other hand-aid remedies, prices paid for farm produced foods in America have not kept pace with inflation. Today the price of pork chops is up six times ($.60 to $3.60 per lb.) over 1953’s prices; wages for equivalent work are up 15-20 times higher.

Farmers must make up ground lost in pricing with volume. For pig farmers, it has meant raising and selling more pigs with the same resources, and cutting corners wherever possible.

The metaphor of Kotis’ pig farm is true for most of America. Today labor and salaried workers are paid a smaller percentage of employers’ total budgets than at any time since record keeping began in 1947. As competition intensifies and margins shrink, entrepreneurs are saddled with more and more fixed costs and government regulation. And government is charged by law to regulate economic activity that threatens public health, welfare and the environment.

“There are expectations from the last century that don’t match up with life as we now live it,” said director Matt August.

“The play’s tensions come from American myths and promises from earlier generations set against the realities of an increasingly hostile economic environment; one that is becoming more ‘them versus us,’ if not ‘every man for himself.’ It’s the American dream turned upside down by diminishing returns.”

Amazingly, Kotis makes a comedy out of all this by taking the melodramatic style and simpler values of the American western and placing them in today’s complex stew of turmoil, conflicting interests and eroded ideals. What’s good for the pig farmer — say sludge dumping — is no good for the public or the EPA. What’s good for the government — say increased regulation — is punishing the small businessman. And what’s good for the consumer — lower prices that eliminate profit margins — puts the pig farmer out of business.

Winston Churchill’s statement that democracy is the worst form of government, except for all the others, has been often been paraphrased into a comment on capitalism. We must admit it is cutthroat — but it also preserves initiative, rewards excellence, and provides the kind of opportunity America has always promised.

Part of Kotis’ view is that the black hats and white hats of yesteryear have now all run together and become shades of gray. There are no pure heroes or villains on Kotis’ pig farm, and he serves it all up, in all its comic absurdity, without apology, without finger-pointing or blame, and without suggestions for solutions.

Apparently, as it should be in a democracy, that last part is up to us.

— Jerry Patch
"I live everyday like it’s my last," says Conrad Prebys, “and I’m having a hell of a time doing it!” Mr. Prebys is the owner of Progress Construction and Management Company. He is also one of San Diego’s greatest charitable philanthropists.

"After the loss of a close friend, I got to thinking that I don’t exactly have a lot of birthdays left, so it’s time to get prepared,” says Mr. Prebys. “I suppose I’ve accumulated quite an estate over the years, and I plan to set up 90% of this into a charitable foundation to be distributed after I pass from this scene. However, sometimes, I have realized that it’s just more fun to do it while I’m alive.” While Conrad does not enjoy the term ‘giving back,’ he notes that “San Diego has been very good to me, and I just want to do good things with my money, such as funding worthy causes in the area. I really get a kick out of it!”

Mr. Prebys is very proud to be a long-time supporter of the East County Boys and Girls Club, and to support the arts throughout San Diego. His voice seems to fill with awe as he says, “I love the arts and always have. Thank God I have that in my life.” His love of the arts in San Diego was expressed this year when Mr. Prebys donated $10 million to The Old Globe’s Securing a Landmark Capital Campaign.

As he explains it, “I know the difference between a friend and an acquaintance.” As a friend of the Globe, he had the opportunity to meet one of his favorite playwrights in 2004. “I treasure a picture I have of me and my wonderful sweetheart Debbie Turner when we met Arthur Miller at The Old Globe.” The quality of the Globe’s productions and the dedication of its staff are another reason for Mr. Prebys’ support. “I’ve never known a more talented group of people, and doggone it, the Globe has only one direction to go and I want to be a part of that and support it.”

ENSURING THE LONG-TERM STABILITY of The Old Globe is the goal of the Theatre’s Capital Campaign, Securing a San Diego Landmark, and will be achieved through three key initiatives: increasing the Globe’s endowment; strengthening the Theatre’s annual fund; and improving facilities on The Old Globe campus.

To accomplish the facilities goal, a renovation and construction project is being planned to create a new theatre and education center on the site of the Cassius Carter Centre Stage and attached to the Old Globe Theatre. This facility will include front-of-house and backstage improvements that address current issues of safety and audience comfort, which have arisen during the 40-year life of this facility.

In recognition of his $10 million gift, the two-theatre complex, which will house the new Education Center, lobbies, work spaces, green room, dressing rooms and Lady Carolyn’s Pub, will be named the Conrad Prebys Theatre Center.

The most significant addition to the campus will be a new state-of-the-art Education Center, which will allow the Globe to expand education and outreach programs which serve more than 40,000 each year.

Paving a Bright Future for The Old Globe Through Planned Gifts

The Old Globe has many thoughtful friends who are ensuring its future by making gifts to the Theatre in their wills and estate plans. The League honors today these thoughtful friends whose generosity will sustain the excellence of The Old Globe for generations, and we hope you’ll consider joining the Craig Noel League, the planned giving society of The Old Globe. Examples of ways friends are helping include making simple bequests, gifts of life insurance, gifts of real estate and charitable trusts. For more information, please contact Associate Director of Development Brad Ballard at (619) 231-1941 x2309 or via e-mail at PlannedGiving@TheOldGlobe.org.

CRAIG NOEL, Founding Director

During Craig Noel’s distinguished 67-year career with The Old Globe, the much-honored director has staged over 225 productions of all styles and periods. Craig has been associated with The Old Globe since its community-theatre inception in 1937 when he made his debut as an actor. Two years later he accepted his first directorial assignments, staging four of the season’s seven productions.

Since then, Craig has guided the organization through its metamorphosis from a community theatre of the highest standards to one of the nation’s most successful not-for-profit theatres. In doing so, he has enriched the quality of life in San Diego for generations of citizens who have become today’s theatre-goers and arts supporters.
Annual Fund Donors

The Old Globe’s ability to maintain the highest standard of excellence, while keeping ticket prices affordable, is due in large part to the financial support of more than 3,500 individuals, businesses, foundations and government agencies. Please join us in giving a warm thanks and recognition to these leaders who have made tonight and our 625 other performances possible. The Old Globe appreciates the support of those who have stepped into the spotlight.

LOUIS G.スピストオ
Executive Director

Louis G.スピストオ has been Executive Director of The Old Globe since October, 2002. During his tenure,スピストオ have spearheaded the return of the Globe’s acclaimed Shakespeare Repertory Season and produced several world-premiere plays and musicals, including the current Broadway musical Dirty Rotten Scoundrels. During the past two seasons, the organization has grown its subscription audience an unprecedented amount, counteracting a trend in the non-profit theatre industry and resulting in the highest level of attendance in over a decade. Prior to coming to the Globe,スピストオ has served as Executive Director of American Ballet Theatre in New York City. While there, he increased ticket income and annual contributions for the organization by nearly 20 percent. He has also tripled the ballet’s touring weeks and the resources devoted to education and training programs.スピストオ has also served as the President of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, where he provided fundraising leadership and creative direction for the orchestra’s $60 million renovation project, and helped dramatically increase ticket sales while initiating several new series for the orchestra.スピストオ established a reputation as a superb arts executive here in California, where he spent over ten years as the Executive Director of the Pacific Symphony Orchestra in Orange County. During his tenure there, he tripled the orchestra’s annual budget, all while eliminating a prior deficit and successfully completing the orchestra’s first endowment campaign. In addition,スピストオ established a series of innovative recording projects with Sony Classical and oversaw a number of nationally recognized commissioning projects. A strong advocate of arts education,スピストオ built one of the largest and most respected music training and outreach efforts. During his career,スピストオ has also served as Director of Marketing for the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and Director of Operations and Development for the Performing Arts Center, UC Berkeley. He holds a Masters degree from the University of Wisconsin in Arts Administration and a Bachelors of Business Administration from the University of Notre Dame, and spent many years acting, directing and producing plays and musicals throughout his student days, as well as in professional summer theatre.

JERRY PATCH
Resident Artistic Director

Jerry Patch was appointed Resident Artistic Director of The Old Globe in February 2005. He most recently served as the Dramaturg and a member of the long-standing artistic team at Southern California’s Tony Award-winning South Coast Repertory (SCR), where he coordinated the development of 150 new plays, including three Pulitzer Prize winners and numerous other finalists. Patch became the top choice for this new role at the Globe due to his many years of artistic accomplishments, his exceptional relationships with the nation’s leading directors and playwrights, and his enthusiastic commitment to new work. While at SCR, Patch worked as Dramaturg on numerous new works, including Donald Margulies’ Sight Unseen and Brooklyn Boy, which just opened to critical acclaim on Broadway, Margaret Edson’s Pulitzer Prize-winning Wit, Howard Korder’s Search and Destroy, Amy Freed’s The Beard of Avon, as well as Intimate Apparel, Freedomland and several world-premieres plays by Richard Greenberg, including Three Days of Rain and A Naked Girl on the Appian Way. In addition, he co-authored The Education of Randy Newman with Michael Roth and Mr. Newman. Patch also served as the project director of SCR’s renowned Pacific Playwrights Festival, which annually introduces seven new plays to an audience of national theatre leaders. Typically, more than 75% of the plays presented receive multiple productions in theatres across the country. During his tenure at SCR, Patch also held the position of Artistic Director (1990-1997) of The Sundance Theatre Program, which included the Sundance Playwrights Laboratory, one of the nation’s leading new play development programs. Additionally, he ran the Sundance Summer Theatre, a repertory of 2-3 productions staged outdoors for Utah audiences and The Sundance Children’s Theatre, which is dedicated to the development and presentation of new works for family audiences by leading American playwrights. He has also served as a consulting Dramaturg for New York’s renowned Roundabout Theatre Company, one of two of the largest theatre companies in the country.
