Dear Friends,

On behalf of my colleagues, Jerry Patch and Darko Tresnjak, and all of our staff and artists, I welcome you to The Old Globe for this set of new plays in the Cassius Carter Centre Stage and the Old Globe Theatre.

Our Co-Artistic Director, Jerry Patch, has been closely connected with the development of both In This Corner, an Old Globe-commissioned script, and Sea of Tranquility, a recent work by our Playwright-in-Residence Howard Korder, and we couldn’t be more proud of what you will be seeing. Both plays set the stage for an exciting 2008, filled with new work, familiar works produced with new insight, and a grand new musical (Dancing in the Dark) based on a classic MGM musical from the golden age of Hollywood.

Our team plans to continue to pursue artistic excellence at the level expected of this institution and build upon the legacy of Jack O’Brien and Craig Noel. I’ve had the joy and honor of leading the Globe since 2002, and I believe we have been successful in our attempt to broaden what we do, keep the level of work at the highest of standards, and make certain that our finances are healthy enough to support our artistic ambitions. With our Board, we have implemented a $75 million campaign that will not only revitalize our campus but will also provide critical funding for the long-term stability of the Globe for future generations.

It is these future generations that I am thinking about as we begin the year. I am most concerned about the Globe’s ability to reach and educate young people. We do a great deal each year to reach almost 50,000 people with our Education and Outreach programs. We must do even more.

When you support The Old Globe, you are supporting the 6th largest non-profit theatre in the country (out of over 2,000) and I assure you that we will do everything possible to keep your trust by creating great theatre and making certain that young people in our community continue and strengthen their connection to this art form.

Again, Happy 2008 and welcome to this production!

LOUIS G. SPISTO

The Globe is grateful to Irving Hughes for finding the property for the Technical Center and generously supporting the Globe.

Thanks to support from many generous contributors, The Old Globe is one of the leading theatres in the United States and a cultural icon in San Diego. Join these donors today by calling (619) 231-1941 x2311 and contributing to the theatre’s annual fund in support of artistic and education programs.
Dear Friends,

I am delighted to thank you, our dedicated subscribers and donors, for your support during The Old Globe’s very successful year in 2007. The Globe’s 16 productions received critical acclaim and enthusiastic audiences as the San Diego community once again showed its loyalty to our superb theatre. Last year, the Theatre also celebrated two milestones with the 20th anniversary of The Old Globe/University of San Diego Master of Fine Arts Program and the 10th anniversary of the Globe’s production of Dr. Seuss’ How the Grinch Stole Christmas!

The Globe’s Board, actors and staff were overjoyed when on November 15, 2007, the Globe’s Founding Director, Craig Noel, received the National Medal of Arts from President Bush. Craig has truly earned and richly deserves this prestigious award for his 70-year association with The Old Globe and significant lifelong contribution to American theatre.

It has been my privilege throughout the last two years to serve as The Old Globe’s Board Chair and work with the Globe’s dedicated Board Members, devoted volunteers, generous donors, talented actors and hard-working staff. Thank you for being here today and for supporting The Old Globe. We look forward to another great year of theatre in 2008!

In December, The Old Globe’s Board of Directors announced the reorganization of its leadership team. After 26 years as the Globe’s Artistic Director, Jack O’Brien retired his post and assumed the title of Artistic Director Emeritus. O’Brien, one of the most sought-after directors in the commercial and not-for-profit theatre, has served the Globe with a tenure that is remarkable for both its longevity and artistic achievement. For the past several years the demands of O’Brien’s schedule have made it difficult for a full time presence at the Globe, and he felt it was time to step down and transition into this new role. Jack has left a lasting legacy at the Globe that is rivaled only by his stature in the theatre industry, and we wish him success in all his future endeavors.

Lou Spisto, who has led the Globe since 2002, will continue executive leadership of the artistic and financial program with the new title of CEO/Executive Producer. Board Chair Kathryn Hattox noted, “Lou has built an excellent team, achieved financial stability and brought the Globe’s theatrical art to unprecedented heights. Our finances and the work on our stages have never been in better shape.”

Jerry Patch, a nationally-respected dramaturge and an industry leader in the development of new plays — brought to the Globe by Spisto and O’Brien in 2005 to oversee day-to-day artistic operations and increase new play development — will become Co-Artistic Director with Darko Tresnjak. Tresnjak will expand his position from oversight of the Summer Shakespeare Festival to a broader role in the Globe’s artistic management with Patch. Both men continue to report to Spisto and, working as they have, they are looking forward to continuing to serve this community with artistic and education programs of the highest caliber.

The Globe is thrilled to announce that Founding Director Craig Noel was named a recipient of the 2007 National Medal of Arts. The awards were presented to this year’s honorees by President George W. Bush and Mrs. Laura Bush in an East Room ceremony at the White House on Thursday, November 15.

Established by Congress in 1984, the National Medal of Arts is the country’s highest honor for artistic excellence. Award recipients are selected based on their contributions to the creation, growth, and support of the arts in the United States.

The nine 2007 National Medal of Arts Recipients include Morton Lauridsen, composer; the Lionel Hampton International Jazz Festival; N. Scott Momaday, author, essayist, poet, professor, painter; R. Craig Noel, Founding Director, The Old Globe; Roy R. Neuberger, art collector; Les Paul, guitarist, inventor; Henry Steinway, arts patron; George Tooker, painter; Andrew Wyeth, painter.

Craig’s contributions to the American theatre – both locally and nationally – are legion. He has enriched the larger community through his support and encouragement of playwrights, actors and artists and through the nurturing of an entire generation of citizens who have become today’s theatregoers and arts supporters. He is considered one of the “deans” of the regional theatre movement and took the lead in a significant revival of American interest in Shakespeare, having launched San Diego National Shakespeare Festival in 1949. He also established the first full Actors’ Equity company in California and was one of the original developers of a comprehensive arts education program.

Craig has been associated with The Old Globe since its inception and has guided the organization through its metamorphosis from a community theatre to one of the nation’s most successful not-for-profit arts organizations. At age 92, Craig’s tenure and directorial credits at the Globe represent a milestone not yet achieved by any other living director in United States history. He has helmed more than 225 productions at the Globe, including the world premieres of Lillian Garrett-Groag’s The White Rose and Reuben Gonzalez’s The Boiler Room; along with American premieres of Alan Ayckbourn’s Mr. A’s Amazing Maze Plays and Intimate Exchanges. Most recently, he directed Over the River and Through the Woods and worked with Tony-Award winner John Rando on the 2006 production of Moonlight and Magnolias. Under his leadership, he oversaw the expansion of the Globe to a three-theatre complex and played an instrumental role in the careers of many directors – including three-time Tony Award-winner Jack O’Brien, whom he brought on board as Artistic Director in 1981. Scores of great American actors, such as Marion Ross, David Ogden Stiers and Kelsey Grammer, have worked with Craig and are indebted to him. His passion for arts education fueled many innovative programs, including the Globe Educational Tours in 1974, the renowned Master of Fine Arts graduate acting program, in conjunction with University of San Diego in 1987, and Teatro Meta, which began in 1983 and went on to become an award-winning, bilingual playwriting program that served thousands of young people in the San Diego region.

We at the Globe have always known Craig as “the Father of San Diego Theatre,” recognizing that he has been a guide, mentor and ally to virtually every professional theatre endeavor in this community. His many honors include the California Governor’s Award for the Arts; the San Diego Union-Tribune’s list of 25 persons who shaped the city’s history; San Diego’s Living Treasure Award; and the San Diego Critics Circle named its annual honors “The Craig Noel Awards for Excellence in Theatre.” Craig remains active and continues to enrich the theatre community through his unflagging support of playwrights, directors, actors and theatre artisans. He is truly a national treasure, and we couldn’t be more thrilled that the President of the United States has selected him to receive the National Medal of Arts.
The Old Globe’s Education programs began with the same visionary man who shaped the Theatre’s artistic life: Craig Noel. Considered the Father of Educational theatre in San Diego, his accomplishments are many. For those audiences who have come to love San Diego’s Junior Theatre, it is notable that Mr. Noel first conceived Junior Theatre as an Old Globe program that has since found its own home and expanded to an exciting opportunity for young theatre enthusiasts to learn and perform. Mr. Noel also built such exemplary projects as Teatro Meta and Camp Orbit. Teatro Meta’s 17-year lifespan helped to build a bilingual, collaborative bridge with our neighbor Tijuana and enriched the lives of thousands of young people. Camp Orbit gave a “total theatre experience that ‘orbits’ the world of theatre at The Old Globe.”

The Globe Educational Tour was the very beginning of Craig Noel’s vision for the Master of Fine Arts program. The program put Old Globe understudies on the road delivering energetic productions in area schools and gave the performers the opportunity to work and train with Old Globe professional directors. The desire to provide top-notch professional training for young performers eventually became the internationally- praised Master of Fine Arts program, a partnership of The Old Globe and the University of San Diego that has been a mainstay of the Theatre’s programming for twenty years.

Mr. Noel has watched as programs grew and changed with the needs of the community. He has supported and encouraged the staff of the Education Department, sharing his wealth of ideas and his passion for excellence. Mr. Noel’s ebullient presence at Globe Education events evokes excitement and awe from teachers and students who know his incredible story and who are honored to know that he has never lost his passion for quality Educational programs that serve the San Diego Community and build the audiences and artists of the future. The Education Department salutes Craig Noel and gives its heartfelt thanks for the solid grounding and high standards he has set for the department.

CRAIG NOEL LEAGUE MEMBERS
Planned Giving Society of The Old Globe

Craig Noel guided The Old Globe through its metamorphosis from a community theatre of the highest standards to one of the nation’s most successful non-profit theatres. When Globe Board Members established a planned giving society to help secure the future of the theatre through donors’ gifts of planned gifts, bequests and other estate planning options, it was an easy decision to name the society after Craig Noel.

Craig Noel League members are leaving their legacy at the theatre and addressing the most critical long-term need of the Globe, to grow its endowment, a protected investment fund that earns interest, which provides the theatre with a reliable income stream to supplement annual ticket sales and donations.

The Old Globe would be pleased to meet with you to discuss your goals for leaving a lasting gift to the Theatre. For more information, please contact Director of Development, Todd R. Schultz at (619) 231-1941 x2310 or TSchultz@TheOldGlobe.org.

Santa Fe

Santa Fe, NM, is known as a tourist destination, a haven for the rich and famous, and a Mecca for artists and writers. But many locals know another side of Santa Fe, where separate communities frequently find themselves at odds with each other. The divide between wealth and poverty in Santa Fe has been cited as a cause for a recent crime wave, according to the Santa Fe Reporter (November 2006).

“Whenever there is income disparity, there is more crime,” non-profit program manager Sara Koplik stated. “And Santa Fe is incredibly disparate – to the level of Latin America.”

The physical proximity between the separate communities is often so close that new homes and lavishly remodeled blocks sit beside older bungalows dating back to the 19th century. Sunset Magazine reported that the rising price of real estate was forcing fourth- and fifth-generation Santa Fe residents to move outside the city limits for affordable housing. Thomas Chavez, the director of the Palace of the Governors, Santa Fe’s historical museum, advised, “If you want to live [in Santa Fe], you have to come here wealthy or else take a vow of poverty.”

The division is not merely economic. Santa Fe is known as “The City of Three Cultures,” a name which refers to the Native American, Hispanic, and Anglo-American cultures. But the name is an oversimplification of the collision between the three communities. “We’re different cultures within cultures,” Chavez went on to say. “It’s a mixture. In Spanish, mestizaje. It’s a concept that has to do with everything from food to music to blood.”

Conflicts revolve around claims to the land, which began as early as the mid-1500s, when the Navajo people fought against the Spaniards who moved in from the southeast—battles that lasted until the late 1800s. Warring was not limited to invaders, however; the Anasazi, another southwestern tribe of Native Americans, fought each other and reportedly became victims of cannibalism (see article on page 11). More recently, new arrivals to Santa Fe have included retirees, celebrities, and the very wealthy. People of privilege and means have catapulted housing prices in Santa Fe, making in-town purchases impossible for descendants of families that have been there for generations.

As local artist Lynda Feman told the New York Times, “Santa Fe is impossible. I’ve lived here for 25 years, and I’m maxed out. It needs to change.”

THE QUESTION

Does Talk Therapy Really Work?

The question is deceptively complicated. In recent years, the effectiveness of psychotherapy — regarded as the basis of talk therapy as it’s currently practiced — has been called into question by medical professionals and critics alike. But measuring the success of talk therapy poses many challenges.

For one, the experience of talk therapy is as different as the patients and the practitioners themselves. In other words, no two therapies are alike. Some therapists focus on dealing with the past, while others believe that correcting a person’s thought patterns and/or behavior is most beneficial. More and more therapists prefer cognitive behavioral therapy (CBT) over traditional psychotherapy, emphasizing that reviewing the past is not only unnecessary to healing, but can be counterproductive. These practitioners believe that it is not important for patients to return to the origins of their problems; rather, they should correct the errors in perceptions that lead them to the conclusion that life is hopeless.

Another complicating factor is a patient’s regimen of medications, often prescribed as part of the overall therapy. A November 1995 study concluded that “psychotherapy alone did not differ in effectiveness from medication plus psychotherapy.” However, a later study reported that a combination of therapy and medication is “often the best way to treat depression.” Other findings indicated that while drug therapy relieved symptoms faster, talk therapy was more effective over a longer period of time.

There is also the question of who the therapist is. In a 1995 study, psychologists, psychiatrists, and social workers did not differ in their effectiveness, and all did better than marriage counselors and family doctors. Treatment by mental-health specialists yielded significantly better results than care administered by primary care physicians. Still, the generalized nature of such conclusions precludes an accurate assessment of what kind of individual offers the most effective therapy.

Talk therapy can work. But how, why, and with whom are not as clear. For those seeking treatment, perhaps the better question is: “Can therapy work for me?” With that question, one at least knows where to begin finding answers. — Kim Monteilbano Heil

I tell people to act as if they can change and that the act will become real, in time, but I don’t believe it does. How can it? It’s an act. An imitation. A habit. What good is that? When someone says to you life’s impossible? And looks to you for help? Just go on pretending? I don’t believe it anymore. They need a solution. I don’t have one. There isn’t one. You can’t solve existence. Existence... solves you.”

— Ben in Sea of Tranquility

The following is taken from
DID CANNIBALISM KILL ANASAZI CIVILIZATION?
by Julie Cart, The Japan Times, July 13, 1999

CHACO CANYON, NM - It is one of the great prehistoric puzzles: What caused the Anasazi people, who had one of the most sophisticated civilizations in North America, to abandon their beautiful stone dwellings in the mid-12th century? What made families walk away, seemingly in great haste, leaving behind food cooking over fires and sandals hanging on pegs?...

...Now, at least one chilling explanation has come forth from physical anthropologist Christy Turner. With the publication this spring of “Man Corn: Cannibalism and Violence in the Prehistoric American Southwest,” which he wrote with his late wife, anthropologist Jacqueline Turner, he has managed to anger Native Americans, rile scientists, horrify New Agers and provide a fascinating theoretical glimpse into the collapse of a great civilization....

...The book debunks the traditional view of the Anasazi as peaceful agriculturists, whose modern-day descendants are the highly spiritual Hopi, Zuni and Pueblo peoples....

...Turner contends that a “band of thugs” - Toltecs, for whom cannibalism was part of religious practice - made their way to Chaco Canyon from central Mexico. These invaders used cannibalism to overwhelm the unsuspecting Anasazi and terrorize the populace into submission over a period of 200 years....

...The Anasazi fled the oppressive cultists and sought haven deep in remote canyons. The next time any part of the culture appeared, these Pueblo people were found to have constructed elaborate dwellings adhered to the sheer sides of cliffs.

Generations of scientists have postulated that such suspended villages - located far from water - represented a fear of a great foe. Turner suggests the Anasazi took up these defensive positions against a horrible enemy - the evil that had infiltrated their own people....

...The notion that the Hopi - revered by scholars as wise and gentle astronomers who lived in an enlightened society - would be capable of killing and eating members of their own clan stunned scientists.

Anthropologists acknowledge than any theory that seems to portray Pueblo Indians in a negative light would be hard to sell.

“Our understanding of the Anasazi is exactly parallel to what was thought of the Maya years ago - this advanced society responsible for beautiful things, that now we realize was not a peaceful place,” said David Wilcox, curator of the Museum of Northern Arizona.

“We are in a period where everything Native American is (seen as) spiritual, sensitive and wonderful. We would like to believe that all of the nasty stuff was introduced by the Europeans, and before that it was all truth, beauty and love. Sorry, that’s just not so. These were complex societies. We are all capable of doing those things.”

LOUIS G. SPISTO
CEO/Executive Producer

Louis G. Spisto has led The Old Globe since October, 2002. During his tenure, Spisto spearheaded the return of the Shakespeare Repertory Season and brought to the Globe several new musicals, including the critically-acclaimed A Catered Affair, the launch of the national tour of the Tony Award-winning Avenue Q and the Broadway transfers of Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life, and the Twyla Tharp/Bob Dylan musical, THE TIMES THEY ARE A-CHANGIN’. He has produced over 75 plays and musicals, including Dirty Rotten Scoundrels, the west coast premiere of the Tony-winning play Take Me Out and the annual holiday favorite, Dr. Seuss’ How the Grinch Stole Christmas!. Spisto has managed the Globe’s Capital Campaign to raise $75 million by the Theatre’s 75th anniversary in 2010. Launched in March 2006, the campaign has reached 75% of its goal to date. During the past four seasons, the Globe has grown its subscription audience an unprecedented amount, resulting in the highest level of attendance in over a decade. The Globe was also recognized by Charity Navigator, America’s premiere charity evaluator, which recently gave the Globe its third consecutive 4-Star rating. A strong advocate of arts education, Spisto initiated several new programs including an innovative cross-border project involving students from both San Diego and Tijuana in a unique bilingual production of Romeo and Juliet. He also launched a free matinee series which brings thousands of students to the Globe’s productions. Spisto established a reputation as a superb arts executive here in California, where he spent over ten years as the Executive Director of the Pacific Symphony Orchestra in Orange County. During his tenure there, he tripled the orchestra’s annual budget, while eliminating a prior deficit and successfully completing the orchestra’s first endowment campaign. In addition, he established a series of innovative recording projects with Sony Classical and oversaw a number of nationally recognized commissioning projects. He also served as the chief executive at both American Ballet Theatre and The Detroit Symphony. JERRY PATCH
Co-Artistic Director

Jerry Patch was appointed Resident Artistic Director of The Old Globe in February 2005, during which time he brought to the Theatre works by such renowned playwrights as Amy Freed, Richard Greenberg and Donald Margulies. In the past three seasons, eleven world premieres and two second productions of new works have been presented, including A Body of Water, winner of the 2006 Best New American Play Award. He previously served as the Dramaturge and a member of the longstanding artistic team at the Tony Award-winning South Coast Repertory (SCR), where he coordinated the development of 150 new plays, including two Pulitzer Prize winners and numerous other Pulitzer finalists. While at SCR, Patch worked as Dramaturg on numerous new works, including Donald Margulies’ Sight Unseen and Brooklyn Bay, which recently opened to critical acclaim on Broadway, Margaret Edson’s Pulitzer Prize-winning Wit, Howard Korder’s Search and Destroy, Amy Freed’s The Beard of Avon, as well as Intimate Apparel, Freedomland and world-premieres of several plays by Richard Greenberg, including Three Days of Rain, Harrah at Last!, The Violet Hour and Everett Beck. In addition, he co-conceived The Education of Randy Newman with Michael Roth and Mr. Newman. Patch also served as the founding project director of SCR’s Pacific Playwrights Festival, which annually introduces seven new plays to Orange County audiences and national theatre leaders. Typically, more than 75% of the festival plays presented receive multiple productions in theatres across the country. During his tenure at SCR, Patch also held the position of Artistic Director (1990-1997) of The Sundance Theatre Program, which included the Sundance Playwrights Laboratory, one of the nation’s leading new play development programs. Additionally, he ran the Sundance Summer Theatre, a repertory of 2-3 productions staged outdoors for Utah audiences and The Sundance Children’s Theatre, which was dedicated to the development and presentation of new works for family audiences by leading American playwrights. He has also served as a consulting dramaturge for New York’s Roundabout Theatre Company, one of two of the largest theatre companies in the country.
