Dear Friends,

Welcome to The Old Globe’s 2008-2009 Winter Season and to our production of The Women. We revive Clare Boothe Luce’s legendary tour-de-force with a lavish production, directed by Resident Artistic Director Darko Tresnjak and showcasing the Globe’s scenic and costume shops’ talent, as well as the 15 actresses who bring the play’s 33 roles to life: a great start to a very exciting season.

Later this season, we’re bringing you three entertaining and completely different snapshots of life in America — Tony Award®-winning playwright John Guare’s thought-provoking Six Degrees of Separation, recently acclaimed as one of the 20 best plays of the last 20 years; the world premiere of Cornelia, a rousing, true-life tale; and a new vision of the classic musical Working from the creator of Wicked.

As you know, this season our second stage productions will be housed next door in the James S. Copley Auditorium at the San Diego Museum of Art, where we have designed and constructed an intimate theatre, modeled on the former Cassius Carter Centre Stage, while construction on our new theatre center takes place. There you will enjoy a close-up experience of four theatrical gems: the world premiere of Itamar Moses’ topical exploration of steroid use in baseball, Back Back Back; the moving story of an American family and a “Lost Boy” of Sudan, Since Africa; the West Coast premiere of a recent New York success, Michael Hollinger’s Opus; and, in our continuing “Classics Up Close” series, Arthur Miller’s moving drama, The Price.

As you can see, we are well underway in the building of the Conrad Prebys Theatre Center, which will include an arena stage, education center, and re-designed plaza. With these additions, the Globe is preparing for the future — a future that contains dazzling new productions in the state-of-the-art “second stage” theatre, expanded education and audience enrichment programs, and an even more beautiful setting for the enjoyment of our patrons and millions of Balboa Park visitors each year.

Enjoy this performance of The Women!

Old Globe Theatre, Donald and Darlene Shiley Stage
September 13 - October 26, 2008
THE WOMEN is supported, in part, by the following generous sponsors:

American Airlines, the world’s largest provider of air travel services with flights to 250 cities, 40 countries and 4 continents, has a decades-long relationship with The Old Globe and has been a production sponsor for the past 20 years, including such memorable shows as A Catered Affair, George Gershwin Alone, Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life, Lucky Duck, Henry V, Beyond Therapy and The Merry Wives of Windsor. American Airlines supports the Globe by providing much-needed air travel, bringing the finest actors, directors and designers from around the country to our stages. In addition to their tremendous production support, American Airlines is also a sponsor of the 2008 Globe Gala.
MARY ANN BLAIR

Mary Ann Blair has supported theatre in San Diego, including The Old Globe, for the past ten years. Through her support of the Globe’s Education and Outreach programs, Mary Ann has made it possible for thousands of children to experience the magic of theatre, and she often attends with them and delights in seeing their reactions to a performance. She believes that the arts are an important part of education and, with a firm commitment to children, she supports organizations that enrich children’s lives through theatre, including San Diego Junior Theatre and Lyric Opera. She has also participated in the Globe’s annual spring theatre trips to New York. We are very pleased to recognize Mary Ann Blair as a Production Sponsor for The Women.

VALERIE AND HARRY COOPER

Valerie Cooper has served on the Globe Board of Directors for many years, including as Secretary and member of the Executive Committee. She was the Honorary Chair of the 2007 Globe Guilders Fashion Show and is on the Capital and Endowment Campaign Committee. Valerie and her husband, Harry, have played many other important roles at the Globe and both have co-chaired extremely successful Globe Galas (Valerie in 2004 and 2006; and Harry in 2005). The Coopers have previously sponsored The Violet Hour, Moonlight and Magnolias and A Catered Affair. Valerie and Harry are active throughout San Diego, supporting the San Diego Museum of Art, Vista Hill Foundation, La Jolla Playhouse, San Diego Opera, Planned Parenthood and Patrons of the Prado. Valerie can also be found on the hunter/jumper circuit with one of her prize-winning horses.

DENI AND JEFF JACOBS

Deni and Jeff Jacobs have been loyal subscribers and donors to The Old Globe for years, and Deni serves on the Globe Board and has served as Co-Chair of the Globe Gala in 2007 and 2008, hosting the Gala Underwriters’ Party at their new home in La Jolla Shores in 2007. Jeff serves as Executive Vice President and President of Global Development for QUALCOMM, which has been a Globe Season Sponsor since 2004. Deni and Jeff are also involved with the Jewish Community Foundation, Educational Enrichment Systems, San Diego Sports Council, Big Brothers and Big Sisters, San Diego State University and the Scripps Foundation of Medicine and Science.
Dear Friends,

Welcome to this performance of The Women, which launches another new season at The Old Globe. We have a wonderful line-up in the coming year, and I hope you’ll join us for each and every one of our productions in the 2008/09 Season.

On your way into the Theatre, you’ll have noticed that construction is underway on our exciting new facility, the Conrad Prebys Theatre Center. Scheduled to open in late 2009, this facility has been made possible by our capital and endowment campaign, Securing a San Diego Landmark, led by magnanimous gifts from Conrad Prebys, Donald and Darlene Shiley and our Board of Directors. We are extremely grateful to them and the many other community-minded supporters, who have – to date – helped us reach more than 85% of our $75 million goal!

And with that goal in sight, we now turn to you for assistance in completing this campaign. All gifts – large and small – make a difference by ensuring that the Globe continues to thrive. You may hear from us in the coming months, and I hope you will respond with an enthusiastic “Yes! I want to help The Old Globe provide great theatre and education programs now and for future generations!”

Thank you for your support, and I hope you enjoy this performance – and every visit to the Globe!

“Charitable giving and volunteering in San Diego is more than just an opportunity to share with others,” says Dean Thorp, Senior Vice President of the Wells Fargo Foundation. “It’s an opportunity to build a network that will have a role in San Diego’s future. It’s a chance to be a part of what’s happening in this wonderful city.”

In the last year, the Wells Fargo Foundation has donated $2.2 million to nearly 500 nonprofit organizations and schools in San Diego County. Mr. Thorp explains, “We do more than just donate our money; we donate the time and talents of our team members. At most of the organizations that receive Foundation grants, you’ll find Wells Fargo team members volunteering their personal time as well. We’ve found that volunteerism really helps to develop our team members, and we’re proud of our philanthropic work, not just in San Diego but throughout our whole enterprise.”

The Foundation places special focus on educational programming. “While we support job training programs, affordable housing programs and literacy programs, we are always trying to support programs that help underserved youth to be exposed to the performing arts. Programs that bring the performing arts to children help to serve our main objective of building stronger communities.”

The Wells Fargo Foundation’s continued support of The Old Globe is an example of charitable giving at its best. Not only does the Foundation make regular donations to the Globe’s Annual Fund and educational programming, but Thorp has served on the Globe’s Board of Directors for five years and Marianne Nelson, Vice President and Regional Director of Wells Fargo Institutional Trust Services, is a current Board member. Friends like the Wells Fargo Foundation help to ensure that the Globe will continue to serve the San Diego Community for years to come.
The Old Globe congratulates the City of San Diego Commission for Arts and Culture for twenty years of outstanding service.

In 1988, the Commission was established by City Ordinance to advise the Mayor and City Council on supporting and promoting the non-profit organizations, neighborhood arts programs, festivals, public art, cultural tourism and innovative programs that help make San Diego an extraordinary and exciting place to live and visit.

Each year, the City of San Diego provides financial support to local arts and culture organizations through a rigorous application procedure managed by the Commission for Arts and Culture. City funding for arts and culture is derived from the Transient Occupancy Tax (TOT), a 10.5% tax paid by tourists visiting San Diego. The City allocates slightly less than 0.5% of total TOT proceeds to the Commission for Arts and Culture for distribution to more than 100 non-profit organizations. This funding yields positive results for the entire community.

According to the Commission’s most recent Arts and Culture Economic and Community Impact Report released in July 2008, San Diego’s arts and culture nonprofits “represent a multi-million-dollar industry fueling the local economy with $148.7 million in direct expenditures during FY 2007.” In addition, local spending by the 2 million visitors to San Diego who participated in Organizational Support Program-funded arts and cultural events last year boosted the economy by $492 million.

The City’s investment in The Old Globe helps sustain a year-round production schedule of world-class theatre, with more than 630 performances of plays and musicals on three stages in Balboa Park.

The City of San Diego Commission for Arts and Culture has served as a catalyst for San Diego’s emergence as a center of global creativity and innovation. The Commission’s dedicated staff and volunteer Commissioners deserve a standing ovation for their ongoing work and steadfast commitment.
The LIFEBLOOD of THE OLD GLOBE: ANNUAL FUND GIFTS

With your help, The Old Globe has become the 6th largest and one of the most respected regional theatres in the country. And we couldn’t do it without you — our Annual Fund donors!

The Old Globe’s Capital Campaign, Securing a San Diego Landmark, has received some magnanimous gifts that are designated exclusively for the construction of our new theatre center and building an endowment. But the Globe still needs ongoing annual support to continue our artistic and education programs.

Charity Navigator, the foremost evaluator of non-profit organizations, ranks The Old Globe in the top 6% of all non-profits in the country for “exceptional” financial management and the resources that go into our productions and education programs (and not the overhead). So you can be sure that your gift to the Globe really goes toward what you see on stage and what happens in classrooms across the county!

What Does Your Annual Fund Gift Support?

- The artists who put spectacular shows on our stages — actors, directors, scenic artists, sound engineers, costume makers, and more
- Production equipment and materials — everything from the 175 stage lights used in The Women to a pair of historically accurate, reproduction Renaissance shoes for an actor in the Shakespeare Festival
- Our many education programs, reaching 50,000 children and adults each year, including free student matinees for public school students, theatre workshops by Globe Teaching Artists in classrooms across the county, and literacy initiatives that get children reading, writing, and performing their own plays

The gifts that keep the curtain rising are Annual Fund gifts from donors who can give us $50 or $500 or $1,000 or $5,000. Ticket income covers just 50% of the costs of producing the great theatre you see on our stages. The Old Globe depends on your support to keep the thrill of world-class theatre alive in San Diego.

Clare Boothe Luce’s Rage for Fame

Clare Boothe Luce had a remarkable career. She was a journalist, war correspondent, editor of Vanity Fair magazine, Broadway playwright, member of the U.S. Congress, and Ambassador to Italy. In 1997, Sylvia Jukes Morris wrote a definitive biography of Clare Boothe Luce, Rage for Fame: The Ascent of Clare Boothe Luce, Rage for Fame: The Ascent of Clare Boothe Luce, Rage for Fame: The Ascent of Clare Boothe Luce, Rage for Fame: The Ascent of Clare Boothe Luce, Rage for Fame: The Ascent of Clare Boothe Luce, Rage for Fame: The Ascent of Clare Boothe Luce, Rage for Fame: The Ascent of Clare Boothe Luce, Rage for Fame: The Ascent of Clare Boothe Luce, chronicling the early part of her career. The following excerpts from Rage for Fame trace the origin and development of The Women.

THE IDEA

The first idea for The Women had come from a conversation she overheard in the ladies room of the Morocco Club. Familiar voices at the washbasins were “dishing the dirt” about some married friends of hers. At the Greenbrier, venomous new lines took shape in her head. The lines grew into scenes, pouring out with phenomenal speed.

THE BUZZ

Awareness of the play’s worth spread quickly though the Broadway community. An MGM script scout predicted that it would cause “a mad scramble” among picture companies. It was “flashy, hokey material and not too expertly written, but it is an unusually good set-up for the screen… The author, a New York society woman, has written of her sex with a knowing and cynical pen.”

THE REHEARSALS

Casting and rehearsals for The Women began in early fall. There were the usual frustrations inherent in any major Broadway production. But none seemed to faze Clare, who was generally willing to jettison her old lines for new ones. Soon everyone concerned with the play was in awe of her. She was always perfectly dressed, coiffed, manicured, ready to turn on her charm and show her cleverness. [Playwright] Moss Hart would never forget the sight of her revising her script in the most feminine of boudoirs, sporting a blue ribbon in her hair and an ermine bed jacket fastened with a diamond pin.

[Actress] Ilka Chase remembered her sweeping in late one night, when the cast, “in varying attitudes of despondency,” was sitting on the bare and grubby stage. She was “on her way to a satin soirée… gown by Hattie Carnegie, sabled by Jaeckel, and from her finger flashed one of Flato’s larger ice cubes.
THE OPENING

Outside the Barrymore Theatre, Sidney Whipple of the World-Telegram lingered to eavesdrop as patrons departed. He was particularly interested in the comments of Clare’s own sex. “So true, so faithful, so delightful!” “Why, I know a woman — you know her, my dear — exactly like—”

“The most amazing thing about it,” Whipple would write, “is the cheerful feminine reaction to a comedy that ought actually to blister the ladies in their tenderest regions . . . They applaud the most brazenly cynical utterance. They delight in dissection. They may even take notes for their personal use.”

THE SUCCESS

When The Women broke its attendance record, Clare’s intimates celebrated in various ways. Condé Nast gave a party at his Park Avenue penthouse and invited his customary A list of actors, journalists, artists, and socialites. Bernard Baruch boasted about getting Max Gordon to produce the play and went to see it at least a dozen times. He bought scores of tickets to keep up the numbers, giving them away to everyone from politicians to elevator boys, and pointed out a tiny gold typewriter on his watch chain that Clare had given him.

Controversy about the play’s unprincipled characters and brittle dialogue continued. Eleanor Roosevelt wrote in her syndicated column “My Day” that she left a performance “longing for a little honest clean talk without any sham or pretense.” John Billings [editor of Life magazine] reacted predictably. “I thought it was pretty unpleasant . . . Harry [Luce, Clare’s husband], I suspect, is very proud . . . If I were in his place I would be ashamed to have a wife who wrote so autobiographically.”

Though Moss Hart [who had given Clare advice during the rehearsal period] was pleased with the play’s financial success, he expressed scant praise at the time. Thirteen years later, when The Women had become a perennial draw in theaters all over the world, he read it again, and wrote Clare a belated compliment:

“I was filled with an admiration for it that I must confess I didn’t have at the time it was produced. It’s a first rate job, and to my mind a highly under-rated play. It’s a great deal more than just a slick, well-constructed play — it’s a highly civilized and biting comment on the social manners and morals of our society, and women’s place in it. I had no idea it was so good . . . I don’t think you ever got the credit you deserved for it, and I thought I’d write and tell you so.”
From the Foreword to The Women

By Clare Boothe Luce

The Women is a satirical play about a numerically small group of ladies native to the Park Avenues of America. It was clearly so conceived and patently so executed. The title, which embraces half the human species, is therefore rather too roomy. It was chosen, ungenerously it may seem, from a host of more generic titles — “Park Avenue,” “The Girls,” “The Ladies” — simply because it was laconic, original and not altogether too remote. Moreover, its very generality seemed to hold a wide audience appeal, a consideration which few commercial dramatists are required to ignore. This having been frankly stated, I am sure that few readers will be distracted by the width of the title from the narrowness of the play’s aim: a clinical study of a more or less isolated group, projected, perhaps in bad temper, but in good faith.

Now, whether or not this play is a good play is any man’s business to say. But whether or not it is a true portrait of such women is a matter which no man can adequately judge, for the good reason that all their actions and emotions are shown forth in places and times which no man has ever witnessed. “Was you there, Charlie?” The patriotic Daughters of the American Revolution were notoriously harsh judges of soldierly, as demonstrated in What Price Glory?. The fact that their fathers were soldiers did not make them good judges of life on the Western Front. So all sentimental gentlemen, young and old, who read this book, are here warned that the fact that their mothers were women does not constitute them, ipso facto, able critics of Life in The Women’s No-Man’s Land.

But that the antics of these women do strike most audiences as funny, instead of dull or nauseating, as they might quite reasonably have done, is a very happy accident for me at the box-office. I am immensely gratified by the play’s success, and properly appreciative of whom I have to thank — the women who are its staunchest advocates and best customers — the women who do not think “all women are like that.”
When I first knew her I didn’t like her. Few women do. I can think of no one who has aroused so much venom in members of her own sex. Much of it is envy. But not all. Other more talented and successful women have disliked her intensely. Some years ago, when a magazine published an article about her entitled The Many Faces of Clare Boothe Luce, the most frequent comment by her peers was, “I thought she had only two.”

As I grew to know her better and as I learned from various personal sources something of her early life and background, I became, if not unreservedly fond of her, at least sympathetic. She made real friendship impossible, perhaps because she seemed to trust no one, love no one, remaining inaccessible deep in the malistic concept that rankled under her shield of opaque, steely self-assurance. Oddly, I was sorry for her, because I believe that despite the stunning and ineluctable procession of her triumphs, she was basically an unhappy woman, never satisfied, never content. Yet she was the glittering lodestar of a generation, or of those parts of it susceptible to the skittish canons of publicity. As such, she became a target for a certain amount of hyperdulia, with attendant accolades, some less awesome than others. In 1947 she came second to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in a national poll to determine “the American woman you most admire”; in 1953, according to a Gallup Poll, she was one of “the ten most admired women in the world,” surpassed by Mrs. Roosevelt, Queen Elizabeth II, Mamie Eisenhower; during her tenure as our ambassador in Italy, freshman girls at Italian universities voted her “the ideal woman.” (Gina Lollobrigida came second.) From a skimpily educated but clever girl, so ambitious that it hurt, to her present dwindling status as Elder Stateswoman Emeritus (in which guise she issues apologias for Nixon and serves on some sort of civilian advisory board tangential to the State Department), she parlayed a nimble, mousetrap mind, apodictic nerve and a will as tough as lignum vitae beneath an exquisitely angelic facade into one of the most strategically calculated and fascinating success sagas of the century. Her technique was simple: aim for the top.

Many years ago, in 1937, a friend wrote me: “I saw The Women and I think Mrs. Luce is wonderful to have thought it up. But then, I think God is wonderful to have thought up Mrs. Luce.”

Excerpts from an article in the August 1974 edition of Esquire magazine. The cover featured a picture of Clare Boothe Luce, with the caption “Woman of the Century.” Helen Lawrenson was an editor at Vanity Fair working with, and eventually for, Clare Boothe Luce, who became editor of the magazine.

Clare Boothe Luce
(Playwright)

Clare Boothe Luce was a playwright, editor, social activist, congresswoman, journalist, and ambassador. A prominent figure in New York society circles, Luce was known for her skill with satire and understatement, as well as her charm, which she displayed with such oft-quoted aphorisms as “No good deed goes unpunished.” Her first play, Abide with Me, a psychological drama about an abusive husband and his terrified wife, opened on Broadway in 1935. The Women was immensely popular with the public, ran for 657 performances and was adapted for the screen by MGM in 1939. Her other works include Kiss the Boys Goodbye, Margin of Error, Child of the Morning and Slam the Door Softly. In 1949, she wrote the Academy Award-nominated screenplay for Come to the Stable and in 1952, she edited the book Saints for Now, a compilation of essays about various saints written by various well-known authors including Evelyn Waugh, Bruce Marshall and Rebecca West.

SPECIAL GIFTS TO THE OLD GLOBE: Education Donors and Volunteers

The Old Globe’s Education Department is the fortunate recipient of many gifts from the San Diego community. Funding comes from numerous donors who commit their philanthropic gifts to the cause of enriching the lives of San Diegans young and old. The Old Globe’s Education programs are given freely to children and adults year round, but they aren’t “free.” The Globe incurs costs for every program and event. Student matinees are probably the most expensive “free” offering the Globe provides. These weekday matinees just for student audiences cost the Globe the same amount as regular evening performances. The Theatre pays the full cost of these performances and, in addition, the Education Department includes pre-show workshops at each school that attends the matinees.

Our Summer Shakespeare Intensive, a four-week full-day program that immerses teens in the study and performance of a Shakespeare play, involves the costs of teachers, directors, designers, stage managers, and our full Production Department in the classes, rehearsals and mounting of the program’s performance in the Lowell Davies Festival Theatre.

The costs of providing these programs are extensive but the rewards are even greater. The Globe and its donors have the satisfaction of knowing that their efforts are bringing the magic of live theatre to children who might otherwise never have the opportunity to attend or participate. Our education programs enrich the community by making theatre part of the lives of thousands of children each year.

There is a sense of teamwork here at the Globe that involves our Board, our donors, and our staff and volunteers. Our donors often see themselves as partners in what we do, and they take the time to serve on the Education Committee, attend student matinees, visit schools to see Globe Readers or In-School Workshops and Residencies, and read thank-you letters written by students. They give their financial gifts and they give their attention. It’s this follow-through that makes the difference. The knowledge that there are people who really care about what we’re doing gives us a sense of empowerment and purpose. The people working here at The Old Globe have been the beneficiaries of that very special kind of philanthropy.

There is another kind of gift that keeps the Education Department not only alive but vibrant — the gift of time. Our volunteers give their time, energy and talents to tell stories. I’m referring to two education programs that tell stories in very different ways. Our Docents tell the story of The Old Globe while guiding visitors on tours through the many fascinating behind-the-scenes areas that are part of this wonderful theatre. The Docents share their knowledge and love of this organization and are an integral part of what we do. They love what they do and they’re very, very good at it.

Our Globe Readers tell another kind of story. These volunteers read stories to children in schools all over San Diego County. They encourage the children to read and to write stories and then many of those children’s stories are turned into short plays. Children everywhere learn a love of reading and a love of theatre. Their affection for their volunteer Reader translates to affection for The Old Globe — the place that person talks about at each school visit.

We are grateful to all who give — those that give of their financial resources and those that give of their time. All of our lives are enriched by their generosity and the high expectations that they have for The Old Globe.

If you would like to make a gift to Globe education programs, please contact the Development Office at (619) 231-1941. If you are interested in becoming a Globe Reader or Docent, please contact the Education Department at (619) 231-1941 x2141.

BUILDING A COSTUME

The process begins with the Costume Designer’s sketch. The Costume Designer, in consultation with the Director, designs every costume worn in the play. Costumes communicate a great deal to the audience—the time period and setting of the play; the personality, social position and other elements of the character; often, the location and action of the scene in which the costume will be worn. As a character develops over the course of a play, the costume designs will often reflect those changes. A Design Assistant serves as project manager for all the costumes in a production. The first decision made in the costume shop is whether the costume will be drawn from the Globe’s extensive costume stock, rented, or created in the costume shop.

Drapers interpret the sketches to make a pattern for each costume created in the shop, based on the measurements of the actor who will wear it. Responsible for the costume from start to finish, drapers often must research period clothing and construction techniques. The costume shop’s library includes such diverse titles as Medieval Military Dress, the 1902 Sears Roebuck Catalogue, and A Collector’s History of Fans. Drapers also solve special theatrical challenges, such as adapting clothing for quick changes and special effects.

Drapers also provide guidance to the Assistant Cutters and Stitchers, who cut out and sew the garment. For period costumes, getting the right look and movement of a costume can require duplicating the construction techniques of the period. The Globe has a collection of antique clothing that can be used as resources for developing the correct construction techniques for each costume.

The first “draft” of the costume is a mock-up made in an inexpensive fabric. The mock-up lets the designer and costume staff see what the design looks like in three dimensions and test the fit and movement that the costume must permit, so any necessary changes can be made before the actual costume fabric is cut. During the rehearsal period, actors come to the costume shop for fittings, beginning with a fitting of the mock-up. Period undergarments, actual vintage pieces or modern reproductions, are sometimes needed to create the correct silhouette for a costume.
Once the play is on stage, the costumes become the responsibility of the Wardrobe Crew, who set the costumes for each performance, assist the actors with costume changes, keep the costumes cleaned and laundered, and monitor them for damage that needs repair. When the play closes, the costumes go into stock, in the massive costume storage room in the Globe’s Technical Center, where it may find a future life in another production here or as a rental to another theatre.

Costume accessories are the department of the Crafts Artisans, who make or modify the jewelry, purses, shoes, ties, wallets, etc. that go with each costume. They also dye and paint fabric, create aging effects on clothing that needs to look well-used, make hats and armor, and attach dance rubber, a material that improves traction, to the soles of all shoes worn on stage.

Wigs, including beards and mustaches, are pulled from stock or custom-made for each actor who requires a wig. The Wig and Makeup staff make a model of the actor’s head or face, using plastic wrap and tape. Easter basket grass makes an excellent stuffing for these models! The wigs are constructed by using a ventilating needle to draw one to three strands of hair at a time through the netting that forms the base of the wig. Most wigs are blends of three shades of human hair—a base color, with a complementary lowlight and highlight. Most theatre actors do their own make-up, but specialty make-ups and effects such as wounds can be created by the wig and make-up staff.

The costumes are finished! The costume deadline is the first technical rehearsal, when the cast begins rehearsing on stage with costumes, lighting, and sound. Technical rehearsals begin about a week before the first public performance and culminate in the final dress rehearsal. This process often reveals unexpected costume challenges, so last-minute alterations can be made.
The Conrad Prebys Theatre Center will herald an exciting new era for The Old Globe, enabling the theatre to produce works at an even higher artistic level and helping ensure the Globe’s prominent position in the future of American theatre. Construction will be completed in 2009 and the first production will be in early 2010.

Old Globe Theatre - Donald and Darlene Shiley Stage
The Conrad Prebys Theatre Center will encompass both the new facility now under construction and the Old Globe Theatre – the Globe’s flagship theatre with year-round performances of Broadway-bound musicals, classics and new plays.

NEW! Sheryl and Harvey White Theatre
A state-of-the-art arena stage – for our intimate productions – with 251 seats in five rows surrounding the stage, safe and comfortable theatre access for audience and actors, full lighting grid and trap room, and new public restrooms.

NEW! Karen and Donald Cohn Education Center
Including Hattox Hall, a large performance and training space for children and adults, as well as a studio dedicated to student activities and a “History of The Old Globe” installation. The Education Center will be home to the Globe’s many audience enrichment activities, serving more than 50,000 each year, and will feature spectacular views from the Donald and Darlene Shiley Terrace.

NEWLY REDESIGNED! Copley Plaza
The Globe’s 13,000-square foot “outdoor lobby” will feature an expanded dining pavilion and seating areas and stunning new landscaping, providing a comfortable welcome to theatergoers, as well as many of the 12 million annual visitors to Balboa Park.

A TEMPORARY THEATRE NEXT DOOR
During construction, The Old Globe has built a temporary arena stage in the James S. Copley Auditorium at the San Diego Museum of Art. We are grateful to the Museum for leasing us this space just steps away from the Globe to house our “second stage” productions. In building this theatre, we had one goal: to provide you with uninterrupted enjoyment of our intimate productions.
Construction is underway on an exciting new theatre complex at The Old Globe. Our new facilities project includes a beautifully renovated plaza, which will be enjoyed by hundreds of thousands of Globe patrons and Balboa Park visitors every year. The center of the plaza will be inlaid with a graceful circular pattern of personalized granite pavers to recognize donors who have made special gifts supporting both the Globe’s Securing a San Diego Landmark capital campaign (facilities and endowment) and the Annual Fund (production and operating expenses).

Granite pavers are available at three giving levels: $50,000, $25,000 and $10,000. Please call The Old Globe Development Department at (619) 231-1941 x2317 for an information packet on The Paver Campaign, or consultation with Development staff about this exciting opportunity.

This list is current as of August 21, 2008.
The Old Globe’s ability to maintain the highest standard of excellence, while keeping ticket prices affordable, is due in large part to the financial support of more than 3,500 individuals, businesses, foundations and government agencies. Please join us in giving a warm thanks and recognition to these leaders who have made tonight and our 625 other performances possible. The Old Globe appreciates the support of those who have stepped into the spotlight.

INFORMATION

SEATING OF LATECOMERS
Although we understand parking is often at a premium, the seating of latecomers is extremely disruptive. Latecomers may be given alternative seating and will be seated at an appropriate interval.

YOUNG CHILDREN
Children five years of age and under will not be admitted to performances.

ELECTRONIC DEVICES AND CAMERAS
Use of recording devices and cameras is not permitted. If you are wearing a digital watch or pager, or if you are carrying a cellular phone, please silence it prior to entering the theatre.

ASSISTED LISTENING SYSTEM
For the convenience of the hearing impaired, the assisted listening system is available in the Old Globe Theatre. Lightweight headsets may be obtained from the house manager prior to performances, free of charge.

PUBLIC TOURS
Go behind the scenes at The Old Globe to learn about the history, three stages, shop and craft areas. Open tours: most Saturdays and Sundays at 10:30am. Groups by reservation. $5 adults; $3 seniors and students. Phone (619) 231-1941 x2142 for information/reservations.

LOST AND FOUND
If you have misplaced a personal item while at the theatre, please contact the Ticket Services Office or Security as soon as possible. If we are unable to locate your item, we’ll happily take down your contact information as well as a description of the item and contact you if it is found. The Old Globe does not assume liability for items left behind on premises.

LOUIS G. SPISTO
CEO/Executive Producer
Louis G. Spisto has led The Old Globe since October, 2002. During his tenure, Spisto spearheaded the return of the Shakespeare Repertory Season and brought to the Globe several new musicals, including the critically-acclaimed A Catered Affair, the launch of the national tour of the Tony Award-winning Avenue Q and the Broadway transfers of Chita Rivera: The Dancer’s Life, and the Twyla Tharp/Bob Dylan musical, THE TIMES THEY ARE A-CHANGIN’. He has produced over 75 plays and musicals, including Dirty Rotten Scoundrels, the west coast premiere of the Tony-winning play Take Me Out and the annual holiday favorite, Dr. Seuss’ How the Grinch Stole Christmas! Spisto has managed the Globe’s Capital Campaign to raise $75 million by the Theatre’s 75th anniversary in 2010. Launched in March 2006, the campaign has reached 85% of its goal to date. During the past four seasons, the Globe has grown its subscription audience an unprecedented amount, resulting in the highest level of attendance in over a decade. The Globe was also recognized by Charity Navigator, America’s premiere charity evaluator, which recently gave the Globe its third consecutive 4-Star rating. A strong advocate of arts education, Spisto initiated several new programs including an innovative cross-border project involving students from both San Diego and Tijuana in a unique bilingual production of Romeo and Juliet. He also launched a free matinee series which brings thousands of students to the Globe’s productions. Spisto established a reputation as a superb arts executive here in California, where he spent over ten years as the Executive Director of the Pacific Symphony Orchestra in Orange County. During his tenure there, he tripled the orchestra’s annual budget, while eliminating a prior deficit and successfully completing the orchestra’s first endowment campaign. In addition, he established a series of innovative recording projects with Sony Classical and oversaw a number of nationally recognized commissioning projects. He also served as the chief executive at both American Ballet Theatre and The Detroit Symphony. He holds a Masters degree from the University of Wisconsin in Arts Administration and a Bachelors of Business Administration from the University of Notre Dame, and spent many years directing, producing and as an actor in plays and musicals throughout his college and graduate school years, as well as in professional summer theatre.
