HERSHEY FELDER IN Maestro
the art of LEONARD BERNSTEIN
Welcome to THE OLD GLOBE

I am thrilled to welcome Hershey Felder back for his third appearance at The Old Globe! I hope you were fortunate enough to see Hershey in George Gershwin Alone and The Great American Songbook earlier this summer. He has enchanted audiences and critics around the world with his “Composer Sonata,” theatrical journeys through the lives and music of the world’s great composers. His latest exploration, Maestro: The Art of Leonard Bernstein, tackles one of America’s greatest musicians, a man whose multifaceted talent and unforgettable energy made him a legend and defined 20th century American music.

It has been an exhilarating year at The Old Globe. This spring, our acclaimed production of August: Osage County earned standing ovations and national attention. This summer, the 2011 Shakespeare Festival brings back Artistic Director Adrian Noble to build on last year’s success. The 2011 Festival features two plays by Shakespeare – The Tempest and Much Ado About Nothing – along with Peter Shaffer’s contemporary classic Amadeus. These incredible offerings would not be possible without your ongoing support - thank you for being a part of our 2010-2011 season!

We have already begun work on a whole new adventure, a whole new season of plays. With 10 dynamic productions, including major musicals, daring revivals and five exciting world premieres, the 2011-2012 season is shaping up to be one of our best ever. You can see the full season lineup in this program on page 16. I hope to see you there!

It’s summer in Balboa Park, and all three Globe theatres are in full swing presenting seven productions. Evening audiences, often swelling to 1,500 members, gaze at magnificent sets and marvel as talented actors perform their theatrical magic. As you settle in to enjoy your own share of this magic, you may not be aware of the enormity of the undertaking behind the scenes.

I was intrigued to learn from our Executive Producer the resources required to create these world-class productions. For months, the Costume, Scene and Prop Shops have hummed with activity to create and support seven mainstage shows. For this season’s Festival sets alone, 750 scaffolding planks were loaded in, 300 lights were hung and crew members averaged 80 hours per week during the technical rehearsal process. Our costumers created 225 costumes and 42 customized wigs, and the props team constructed more than 60 pieces of furniture.

Ticket revenue covers only about half the cost of this complex effort, almost all of which occurs right here in San Diego, led by talented artists whose skills rank at the very top of their crafts. Most of the rest of the cost is covered by the generosity of patrons like you. Your support as donors to our annual fund ensures the Globe’s status as a nationally recognized cultural icon and makes each of you a key investor in our success.

Thank you!

Sincerely,

Harold W. Fuson, Jr.

Just as I was beginning rehearsals for Maestro, I got an email from a friend on the classical side of the music business.

“Lenny’s been dead for only 20 years. Even I met him. Why him? He hasn’t really been dead long enough. What gives?”

At first, I gave a silly answer - something to do with “…theatre directors, patrons… they’ve been asking me to portray this character even before I began the Gershwin project more than 15 years ago. So here we are.”

But the truth is that my friend's question must be addressed seriously. I think there is an important story to tell. As with Gershwin, Chopin and Beethoven, Bernstein’s story is one of a creative artist and his struggle. But what’s different about him is that, because he has only been gone for 20 years, time hasn’t yet confirmed for us whether as a composer he is a Beethoven, Chopin or Gershwin. Or not.

Since Bernstein spent his life studying the immortals and sharing with us what in fact makes them so, it is very interesting to try and understand his point of view and how his understanding of great music affects his perception of his own place in the pantheon of the greats. In another 20 years, we’ll probably know where he belongs - but, at the moment, not knowing gives us something to ponder.

I welcome you to the presentation of this new work, and I look forward to our being together again as the stories and music continue on.

Each time Hershey Felder has set out to create a show, he has done so with a vast musical library at his fingertips. These musical scores helped to shape the stories he was choosing to tell. With Gershwin he embraced the songbook not only to tell the moving and poignant tale about genius cut down too early, but also of the magic that exists in a perfect artistic partnership such as the one between George and Ira. For Beethoven he utilized the composer’s haunting compositions to deconstruct an enigmatic soul whom we all revere. And he uncovered Chopin’s genius through the keys of his piano, recounting a life of a troubled man who expressed himself though his compositions. In each case, music was at the center of these men’s lives, and so it is the case with Leonard Bernstein. There is one distinct difference, though. In Bernstein’s own mind, he never wrote a definitive composition. He even believed that the best elements of West Side Story were removed for dramatic necessity. He wanted to live long enough to write the piece that would canonize him as a musical genius. He would claim that piece was never written. He is, however, remembered as one of the greatest musical minds of the last century and for that reason, he is the subject of Felder’s newest play, Hershey Felder in Maestro: The Art of Leonard Bernstein.

Felder discovered early on in the process that Bernstein was going to be a difficult subject to convey. Being as beloved as Bernstein was, Felder was able to draw from those who knew him best. In addition, he could embrace such research tools as YouTube videos of Bernstein for his physical characterizations—a luxury Felder hasn’t had on previous shows. But what Felder noted immediately was that this was going to be a story that focused on a lack of the quintessential composition—at least Bernstein’s composition—as opposed to an abundance of them. As Felder’s writing process began and the story unfolded, his focus switched to Bernstein the teacher and conductor and less the composer.

Through Omnibus – the legendary public arts show hosted by Alistair Cooke and featuring programming about science, the arts and the humanities – as well as the legendary Young People’s Concerts, Bernstein became a household name. His lectures on the great composers were a powerful tool for bringing a greater understanding of compositions to the masses. Felder incorporates these lessons into Maestro elegantly, allowing the audience to experience Bernstein as musicologist, as conductor and as teacher. But this was also Bernstein’s struggle. Felder believes that part of what inhibited Bernstein’s ability to break through as a composer was that his understanding of music was so great and such a part of his thinking that his compositions couldn’t help but be derivative. But while Bernstein may have believed that he did not leave behind his greatest work, theatre academics and musicologists readily disagree.

To some, West Side Story is the greatest piece ever written for the American stage. Joel Zwick, Felder’s longtime director and friend, points out that at the time that Arthur Laurents, Jerome Robbins, Stephen Sondheim and Leonard Bernstein created West Side Story, only Robbins was well known. Imagine the lightning in that bottle. But what this show did to enhance and change the face of American musical theatre cannot be underestimated, even while Bernstein craved something more substantial for his repertoire. Felder is sure to be clear on this point. It isn’t that Bernstein didn’t think West Side Story was worthwhile; he simply did not want it to be the pinnacle of his career—and it was, at least as far as compositions go.

But there is the other side of Bernstein that Felder uncovers here, and it is impossible not to draw a parallel between the art of Bernstein and the art of Felder himself. Bernstein excelled at making music—the most difficult and complex music—accessible to all. It is not dissimilar to what Felder does when he creates rich characters from the lives of these composers. And that speaks volumes to Bernstein’s legacy—audiences crave to delve into and understand the art that goes into composing Beethoven’s Fifth Symphony, Gershwin’s “Rhapsody in Blue,” Chopin’s “Nocturne” and the score to West Side Story. Like Bernstein before him, Felder brings the audience into the world of the composer, making our connection to their music ever more satisfying.

Craig Noel (Founding Director) was first appointed director in 1939, directing 15 productions prior to World War II. Since then he directed more than 200 plays of all styles and periods and produced an additional 270 productions. His vision for The Old Globe resulted in the establishment of the Shakespeare Festival and the San Diego Junior Theatre in the late 40s, the expansion to two theatres in the ’50s, Globe Educational Tours in the ’70s and Teatro Meta and the Old Globe/University of San Diego MFA program in the ’80s. During the 1940s, Mr. Noel served as dialogue director for the 20th Century Fox Studios and was the former director of the Ernie Pyle Theatre in Tokyo. Described by Variety as the eminence grise of San Diego theatre, Mr. Noel is one of the few San Diegans to have had an entire year (1987) proclaimed in his honor, and to be named one of San Diego’s “Living Treasures.” He was a founder of the California Theatre Council and a former vice president of the California Confederation of the Arts. His numerous honors include The San Diego Union-Tribune list of 25 persons who shaped the city’s history, the Governor’s Award for the Arts; University of Arizona Alumni Association’s Outstanding Citizen; Metropolitan Opera. Recent Awards: 2008 Theatre Hall of Fame Inductee, 2007, he received the National Medal of Arts – the nation’s highest honor for artistic excellence – in a ceremony at the White House. Craig Noel died on April 3, 2010 at the age of 94.

The Old Globe opened its arms to the theatre artists of the future at the third annual Globe Honors awards event. Some 75 brave young actors and singers auditioned for our judges, who selected 12 finalists to go on and perform their songs or monologues for a panel of professional casting agents, a director and a university professor. Six students also competed for the Technical Theatre category.

The winners of the 2011 Globe Honors were Michael Mahady (Lead Actor in a Musical), Nicole Elledge (Lead Actress in a Musical), Dylan Hoffinger (Musical Theatre, Male), Megan Neubauer (Musical Theatre, Female), A.J. Foggiano (Spoken Theatre, Male), Lila Gavares (Spoken Theatre, Female) and Dillon Evans (Technical Theatre and Stage Management).

The winners of the Musical Theatre, Spoken Theatre and Technical Theatre categories received a $1,000 scholarship to further their studies, and the winners of Leading Role in a Musical received a $500 scholarship and an all-expense-paid trip to New York to compete in the National High School Musical Theatre Awards.

Congratulations to all of the exceptional teens who participated in this competition!

Have you ever wondered what it looks like underneath the Globe Theatre stage? Pondered where our amazing costumes are constructed? Been curious about the Green Room? Join us on a Behind the Scenes tour for stories about the history and fables of The Old Globe, plus amazing facts about how we do our work.

Our tour groups are for anyone with a healthy curiosity about the work of creating art. Individuals and small groups can also join one of our Walk-Up tours conducted on Saturdays and Sundays at 10:30 a.m.

And for school groups who want to brush up their Shakespeare we have our Follow the Bard tour. Children hunt for props and costumes from many of our productions, and our docents use these items to enlighten the children about the plots and characters in the plays.

For more information about Behind the Scenes and Follow the Bard tours, please email GlobeLearning@TheOldGlobe.org or call (619) 231-1941 x2145.

As announced in July 2008, the names of Annual Fund donors at the Silver level are published semi-annually, once in the Shakespeare Festival program and again in a winter Globe program.

For additional information on how you may support The Old Globe’s artistic, education and community programs, please visit our website at www.TheOldGlobe.org or contact Rachel Plummer, Development Manager, Individual Annual Giving, at (619) 231-1941 x2317 or rplummer@TheOldGlobe.org.

Meet the Artist
Meet and mingle with talented Globe actors, directors and artists at exclusive events for Globe donors.

Each year, The Old Globe hosts a special “Meet the Artist” series to thank Annual Fund donors, whose gifts support our artistic and education programs. These special behind-the-scenes events are reserved for Globe donors of $500 or more, and attendees enjoy pre- and post-event receptions and have the opportunity to interact with talented Globe artists, who later regale the attendees with personal and professional stories during a candid interview with The Globe’s Executive Producer, Lou Spisto.

The remaining artist for the 2011 series will be:

MILES ANDERSON – appearing as Prospero in The Tempest and Salieri in Amadeus during the 2011 Shakespeare Festival.

Globe donors who attended the first event in this year’s series were able to meet Sam Gold, the director of the Globe’s 2011 critically-acclaimed production of Tracy Letts’ August: Osage County.

In addition to the featured Sponsors of Maestro: The Art of Leonard Bernstein, the Globe wishes to thank Elaine Lipinsky for her support of The Great American Songbook and George Gershwin Alone.

Elaine Lipinsky

Elaine is the daughter of the late Dorris and Bernard Lipinsky and is honored to have been a part of The Old Globe family for many years. The Lipinsky family’s tradition of generous support to the Globe began in the 1950s, and it is important to Elaine that this tradition be continued through her own foundation because of her parents’ love of the Globe and its service to the community through its dedication to theatrical excellence and arts education. Elaine also supports the M.F.A. Musical Theatre Program at SDSU, Vista Hill, Seacrest Village, Mama’s Kitchen, various other theatres in San Diego and other charities too numerous to mention.

What is the Craig Noel League?
Founded in 2000 and named for the Globe’s Founding Director, the League is a planned giving society for the Globe comprised of individuals who have included The Old Globe in their estate plans. Through their generosity, these supporters of the Theatre are helping to ensure a long and bright future for San Diego’s leading cultural landmark.

What is a Planned Gift?
Planned giving is simply a way to support The Old Globe through your estate plans by establishing an irrevocable bequest of property, stock or cash; a charitable trust; a living estate; or some other deferred giving instrument. In your estate plans, you have the ability to designate the specific use of the funds given to the Globe, and to help guide your decision, The Old Globe Board of Directors has established specific giving areas that you may choose from, including classical theatre and Shakespeare, education programs and new works.

How do I make a Planned Gift?
Simply call the Globe and schedule an appointment for a confidential meeting, or visit with your estate planner or attorney. You may also attend one of several seminars held throughout the year to become more acquainted with estate planning.

How can a Planned Gift help me?
A planned gift can reduce your income tax, increase your yearly income, help you avoid capital gains tax, distribute your assets to family members at a reduced tax rate and, most importantly, support an organization you love! You will also have the satisfaction of knowing your gift will impact generations of future theatregoers and that The Old Globe will remain a leader in the theatre arts for decades to come!

To become a member of the Craig Noel League or to tell us of a gift you have already made, please contact Bridget Cantu Wear, Associate Director of Development, Planned Giving, at (619) 231-1941 x2312 or bcantuwear@TheOldGlobe.org.

Join us and become a part of our active community with a variety of exciting events like our Annual Member Event on Thursday, August 25, in the Craig Noel Garden followed by a theatre performance. Attend one of our monthly lunches – “Food for Thought” – and meet a Globe artist or attend one of the many Opening Night receptions held throughout the year.
Associate Artists of The Old Globe

In recognition of their unique contribution to the growth of The Old Globe and their special talent, we take great pride and pleasure in acknowledging as Associate Artists the following individuals who have repeatedly demonstrated by their active presence on our stages and in our shops, that wherever else they may work, they remain the heart and soul of the Globe.
